LONDON, Feb. 23.—An attack by planes of the British royal air force on units of the German war fleet off Heligoland was officially disclosed today coincident with a renewal of Nazi air activity over British waters.

A brief communique issued by the air ministry revealed that the Heligoland raid occurred Tuesday night but there was no indication as to its success or failure. At the same time, it was reported that a German plane which had crossed the English coast on a raiding mission this morning was shot down.

Communique Issued

The air ministry communique said:

"Warships observed near Heligoland were attacked with bombs.

"Anti-aircraft fire was encountered from ships and shore batteries.

"One of our aircraft reports that it was attacked by three enemy fighters without success. It is believed that one of the fighters was forced down.

"No casualties or damage were suffered by any of our aircraft during the operation, but on the homeward journey they made bad weather which accounted for the failure of one of our aircraft to return."

Meanwhile, a lone German plane

Welles Will Face Dim Peace Outlook

By J. C. OESTREICHER
International News Service Foreign Editor

By sheer coincidence or malicious design, the outlook for peace in Europe promises to be just about the worst in months when United States Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles steps off the Liner Rex at Genoa early next week.

Much has happened since President Roosevelt conceived the idea of sending a fresh and unprejudiced observer on a "grand tour" of embattled Europe. And none of it has been good.

Will Be Received Rapidly

Significant today was the stress laid in Berlin on the rapidly with which Welles will be received by Adolf Hitler the moment he arrives in Germany. There is every indication that Mr. Roosevelt's emisssary will find himself confronted less by a man ready to negotiate a peace than by one burning with indignation against England.

Germany's failure to move in swift reprisal against England for her raid on the prison ship Altmark in violation of Norwegian neutrality is distinctly out of tune with the Nazi character. But it will be recalled that immediately after this incident, the German government made known that it was preparing a huge "dossier" of English crime to hand to Welles upon his arrival.

Vote On Amendments To Reciprocal Trade Treaty Bill Expected

MAY REACH FINAL VOTE BEFORE HOUSE

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The administration's No. 1 "must" bill of the session—continuation of the reciprocal trade treaty law for three years—was thrust before the house today for votes on crucial amendmen's, and possibly on final passage.

Ready for a showdown after yesterday's holiday breathing spell, Democratic leaders predicted that all weakening amendments will be rejected and the bill will pass by a 40-vote margin.

While Republicans generally conceded passage of the measure, which authorizes continued conclusion of trade treaties by the administration, Democrats leading battles for amendments declined to admit defeat.

Expected To Show Trend

Four important amendments were expected to show the trend of the final vote. They are:

1. Republican amendment to require full congressional ratification, of trade treaties.

2. Amendment to require senate ratification only.

3. Amendment prohibiting imports where cost of production abroad is below that in the United States.

4. Amendment prohibiting reduction of import taxes on oil, copper, coal and lumber in trade treaties.

Spread Of Epidemic Is Brought To Light After Rampage Of Mad Dog

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—A city health official admitted today that he was "stumped" by the epidemic of rabies in Pittsburgh, believed to be the worst in local history.

"From the standpoint of control, it's got me stumped," Dr. Philip E. Marks, superintendent of the bureau of infectious diseases, said.

Spread of the epidemic was brought to light yesterday in an investigation which followed the rampage of a mad dog in the Carrick and Overbrook sections. The mongrel bit 19 persons before it was slain.

Dr. I. Hope Alexander, health department director, declared a 100 day quarantine on dogs in January, but even this has failed to break the epidemic. Since Jan. 16, when the order went into effect, approximately 30 "positive heads" have been found by laboratory experts, it was learned.

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—Soviet troops hammering at Finland's Mannerheim line on the Carelian isthmus are driving back the Finnish forces, the Soviet high command said today in a war communique issued on the 22nd anniversary of the founding of the red army.

"Nothing of importance at the front," the war bulletin stated.

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—The distribution of approximately 2,350,000 applications for 1940 automobile license tags will begin today and they should be received by motorists by Monday, Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., announced here.

The 1940 plates must be on automobiles not later than April 1, although they may be attached as early as March 15. The new tags will bear blue numerals on a gold background, the reverse of the 1939 plates.

The new plates will be mailed out immediately upon receipt of properly signed applications and correct remittances, Hamilton stated.

A three-month's extension of time for 1940 was instituted by the legislature, making the 1939 tags good for 15 months.

License fees for passenger cars range from $10 to $15.40, cost being based upon horsepower. The average cost is about $11. Tags for trucks average $31, ranging from $16.50 for a half-ton truck to $350 for a 36,000-pound loaded vehicle.

BERLIN, Feb. 23—German's whole long list of grievances against England, starting with her alleged war responsibility and up to and including "piracy" on the seas, will be aired to United States under-secretary of State Sumner Welles on his arrival in Berlin next week, it was made known today.

President Roosevelt's emissary will be received promptly by foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in that order.

Tentative arrangements for his reception have been completed. They will be made definite and permanent as soon as definite word is received from the United States embassy in Rome as to the date of his arrival. He is generally expected here on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The German "Dossier" on British offenses will be headed by the Altmark incident. Rumor Secretary Hull Will Stay Out Of Race

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Rumored decision of Secretary of State Cordell Hull to remain out of the 1940 presidential race created interest among national politicos today, because of its possible effect on the campaign plans of both President Roosevelt and Postmaster General James A. Farley.

At times, both the president and Farley have designated Hull as their first choice for the 1940 Democratic nomination.

Speculation was aroused over the possibility that Hull's withdrawal from the race might be a factor in the president deciding to run for a third term.

The president frequently has spoken to intimates about the availability of Hull to succeed him in the White House. To some, he has said Hull would make a great president. Others, he has advised to "see Hull and get to know his better."

To one intimate, he frankly confided some weeks ago he would like to see Hull in the White House, because in such an administration he would feel free to offer his personal services as an American arbiter in any peace conference terminating the second World War. Since then, the president has sent Undersecretary Sumner Welles abroad to "get information" on the possibility of a peace conference in the spring.

Anglo-French Fleet Is Patrolling Arctic Off Port Of Murmansk

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 23.—Reports of a major air battle over the Finnish port of Petsamo were denied today, but it was confirmed by Oslo authorities that large numbers of British warships are patrolling the Arctic waters off Petsamo and the Russian port of Murmansk.

Advices to Oslo said that 18 Russian planes yesterday bombed the northern Finnish town of Ivalo for the second successive day. Russian troops were reported hard at work restoring fortifications in the captured Finnish "Nickel City" of Salmijaervi.

Copenhagen, Feb. 23.—Presence of an Anglo-French naval fleet of many units, blockading the Arctic waters from North Cape, Norway, to the mouth of Kola Bay, entrance to the Soviet Russian port of Murmansk, was reported "confirmed" today in advices from Oslo.

Bitter Fighting Rages On Other Fronts In Addition To Viborg Area

By PETER DE HEMMER GUDME
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HELSINKI, Feb. 23.—Soviet Russia's gigantic forces hammering against the Mannerheim line faced apparent failure today in their desperate attempt to capture Viborg before midnight for a fitting celebration of the 22nd anniversary of the Red army's founding.

Latest advices received in Helsinki said that heavy fighting was in progress along the smoking inferno of the Mannerheim line, but that the Rusians still had six miles of stern Finnish resistance to overcome before reaching Viborg.

Russians Halted

From reports received at Finnish army headquarters, it seemed certain that the Russians would fail in their ambition to stage a triumphal march into Viborg before the day is out.

In addition to the Viborg sector, bitter fighting raged on other parts of the Carelian Isthmus, although fog accompanying warmer weather hampered aerial activity. No aerial bombardments of Helsinki or other Finnish cities were reported up to a late hour.

In a supreme effort to gain a major victory on Russia's "army day," Soviet War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov, directing operations ordered every available Russian soldier to participate in the monster offensive.

The attack was launched on a grander scale than any seen in the Carelian area so far, and probably was the greatest staged in Europe since World war days.

(Reliable reports to Stockholm yesterday said the Russian naval chief flew to Murmansk, northern Soviet port, to put the Russian Polar fleet on a war footing. His mission was linked with reports—which British officials deprecated but neither denied nor confirmed—that British warships are lying off the Arctic coasts of Russia and Finland.)

All indications were that the Soviet troops on the Carelian isthmus are pushing a determined offensive aimed at capture of Viborg, Finland's second city, and an important military key point.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—The distribution of approximately 2,350,000 applications for 1940 automobile license tags will begin today and they should be received by motorists by Monday, Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., announced here.

The 1940 plates must be on automobiles not later than April 1, although they may be attached as early as March 15. The new tags will bear blue numerals on a gold background, the reverse of the 1939 plates.

The new plates will be mailed out immediately upon receipt of properly signed applications and correct remittances, Hamilton stated.

A three-month's extension of time for 1940 was instituted by the legislature, making the 1939 tags good for 15 months.

License fees for passenger cars range from $10 to $15.40, cost being based upon horsepower. The average cost is about $11. Tags for trucks average $31, ranging from $16.50 for a half-ton truck to $350 for a 36,000-pound loaded vehicle.

BERLIN, Feb. 23—German's whole long list of grievances against England, starting with her alleged war responsibility and up to and including "piracy" on the seas, will be aired to United States under-secretary of State Sumner Welles on his arrivel in Berlin next week, it was made known today.

President Roosevelt's emissary will be received promptly by foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop and Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler in that order.

Plan For Reception

Tentative arrangements for his reception have been completed. They will be made definite and permanent as soon as definite word is received from the United States embassy in Rome as to the date of his arrival. He is generally expected here on Tuesday or Wednesday.

The German "Dossier" on British offenses will be headed by the Altmark incident. Alleged British attacks on defenseless German season of the freights Wakama and Watussi in South American waters will be cited, and strong emphasis will be placed on what the foreign office publication diplomatic correspondence today branded "Brutal British sea warfare."

"Germany is fighting British sea piracy ruthlessly," a diplomatic correspondence said, "but is not conducting any unrestricted submarine warfare against neutrals."

Not Lion Tracks, Zoo Head Says

(International News Service)

PITTSBRGH, Feb. 23.—Reports that a lion was loose in the Evergreen district on Pittsburgh' Northside threw a scare into residents of that neighborhood today, but a short time later a veteran zoo superintendent asserted tracks left by the animal were not those of a lion.

Arnold Schaumann, head of the Highland Park Zoo, who rushed to the scene, together with a cordon of armed policemen, examined the footprints on a frozen reservoir at the Hahn Floral company and declared they were not lion tracks.

Four persons reported they saw the animal and three others claimed they heard it roar.

Rumor Secretary Hull Will Stay Out Of Race

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Rumored decision of Secretary of State Cordell Hull to remain out of the 1940 presidential race created interest among national politicos today, because of its possible effect on the campaign plans of both President Roosevelt and Postmaster General James A. Farley.

At times, both the president and Farley have designated Hull as their first choice for the 1940 Democratic nomination.

Speculation was aroused over the possibility that Hull's withdrawal from the race might be a factor in the president deciding to run for a third term.

The president frequently has spoken to intimates about the availability of Hull to succeed him in the White House. To some, he has said Hull would make a great president. Others, he has advised to "see Hull and get to know his better."

To one intimate, he frankly confided some weeks ago he would like to see Hull in the White House, because in such an administration he would feel free to offer his personal services as an American arbiter in any peace conference terminating the second World War. Since then, the president has sent Undersecretary Sumner Welles abroad to "get information" on the possibility of a peace conference in the spring.

Anglo-French Fleet Is Patrolling Arctic Off Port Of Murmansk

(International News Service)

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 23.—Reports of a major air battle over the Finnish port of Petsamo were denied today, but it was confirmed by Oslo authorities that large numbers of British warships are patrolling the Arctic waters off Petsamo and the Russian port of Murmansk.

Advices to Oslo said that 18 Russian planes yesterday bombed the northern Finnish town of Ivalo for the second successive day. Russian troops were reported hard at work restoring fortifications in the captured Finnish "Nickel City" of Salmijaervi.

Copenhagen, Feb. 23.—Presence of an Anglo-French naval fleet of many units, blockading the Arctic waters from North Cape, Norway, to the mouth of Kola Bay, entrance to the Soviet Russian port of Murmansk, was reported "confirmed" today in advices from Oslo.

These advices stated that Russian war planes also are patrolling the area and keeping a sharp watch on the allied war vessels.

Reports from Moscow, at the same time, said that the Russian press was carrying detailed articles on what was styled the "fear" of the western powers of attacking the Soviet union.

Bitter Fighting Rages On Other Fronts In Addition To Viborg Area

By PETER DE HEMMER GUDME
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HELSINKI, Feb. 23.—Soviet Russia's gigantic forces hammering against the Mannerheim line faced apparent failure today in their desperate attempt to capture Viborg before midnight for a fitting celebration of the 22nd anniversary of the Red army's founding.

Latest advices received in Helsinki said that heavy fighting was in progress along the smoking inferno of the Mannerheim line, but that the Rusians still had six miles of stern Finnish resistance to overcome before reaching Viborg.

Russians Halted

From reports received at Finnish army headquarters, it seemed certain that the Russians would fail in their ambition to stage a triumphal march into Viborg before the day is out.

In addition to the Viborg sector, bitter fighting raged on other parts of the Carelian Isthmus, although fog accompanying warmer weather hampered aerial activity. No aerial bombardments of Helsinki or other Finnish cities were reported up to a late hour.

In a supreme effort to gain a major victory on Russia's "army day," Soviet War Commissar Klementi Voroshilov, directing operations ordered every available Russian soldier to participate in the monster offensive.

The attack was launched on a grander scale than any seen in the Carelian area so far, and probably was the greatest staged in Europe since World war days.

$10,000 For Three-Letter Word

Offer Is Made To Small Girl

Seek To Test Psychic Sense Of Four-Year-Old State Resident

SPECIAL TEST HAS BEEN PREPARED

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The late Calvin Coolidge was paid one dollar a word for his writings but a four-year-old girl was offered ten thousand dollars today if she can read a single three letter word — $3,333.33 a letter.

The little lass is Faith Hope Charity Harding of Tracksville, Pa., reported to have a strong psychic sense, and the offer was made by the universal council for psychic research headed by Joseph Dunninger, magician and non-believer in psychic forces.

Special Test

"We have prepared a special test, a simple one for Faith Hope Charity if she is possessed of genuine psychic powers," Dunninger reported. "We have in the past offered up to $31,000 to any person who could read any one of three ten-word messages contained in a sealed envelope. Because this child is so young we brought the test down to her age level. One three letter word in a sealed envelope and $10,000 for her if she can tell us what it is."

Dunniger revealed that an average of 5,000 persons try annually to "read" the 10-ward messages and none has ever succeeded.

Prize Once $31,000

"At one time the prize was $31,000," he said. "Mrs. Harry Houdini puts up $10,000, the council for psychic research put up $10,000, a magazine put up $10,000 and an independent investigator put up a thousand. For one reason or another the offers were withdrawn except ours. The $10,000 is still here for anybody to shoot at."

Dunninger had 60 letters today—an average number—from persons who by use of the ouija board, automatic writing or some other inspiration hoped to solve the three secret ten-word messages.

In the past year, approximately 150 persons appeared in person and offered their version of one or another of the sealed messages. None was successful.

And none of the 5,000 hopefuls who write annually have ever come close, Dunninger reported.

that Welles set sail from New York, tacitturn but seemingly confident that he might be able to find some avenue of approach toward an international settlement before Europe's cities become a shambles and her civilization a collective corpse.

It was on that very day that the Altmark was boarded and on that day that the Mannerheim line began to crack, opening for Josef Stalin the vista of a new day when he might be freed from Finnish burdens and allowed opportunity to launch Soviet aggrandizement elsewhere.

Coincidences such as these are uncanny. So much so that one must suspect premeditation, particularly in the case of Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic wizard and financial bludgeoner extraordinary.

Pressure On Rumania

For he is due in Bucharest to put the pressure on Rumania regarding oil exports enabling Germany to keep her Mobile army and air force in action on the very day that Welles is due in Berlin.

Since Welles left New York, the whole European picture has become a jumble of ominous portents and dangerous potentialities. In comparison, the situation before then was almost simple and clear-cut.

Today, with the Rex plowing toward Italy, there is presumably a British fleet swinging in battle formation off Russian Arctic ports, a growing fear of some major Soviet move through the caucasus to the middle east and a very strong possibility that the long-dormant Rumanian problem will flare into pyrotechnics before the week is out.

Under the circumstances, it is logical for observers to ask whether any conceivable good can possibly come out of Welles' mission.

To this question, there is no answer at the moment. To judge by the cables from Berlin, the Germans want nothing more than to have his ear for an hour or two while Philippics are delivered against England, and the wise men of Whitehall will be equally glad of an opportunity to tell him—and through him tell America—how naughty the Germans are.

But if present omens can be heeded, mere words will be drowned out in a roar of momentous developments while Welles and his briefcase traverse the war-barricaded roads of Europe.

Death Penalty Is Imposed Upon Murder Plotter

Alleged Master-Mind In Philadelphia Insurance Murders Is Sentenced

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Paul Petrillo, 44, one of the alleged masterminds of the notorious Philadelphit murder-for-insurance conspiracy, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair by Judges Frank Smith and Theodore Rosen.

Defense counsel objected to the imposition of sentence in view of the death of the third member of the court, which decided the penalty without a jury after the erstwhile tailor shop owner pleaded guilty.

The defendant heard his doom pronounced in silence, but closed his eyes, gulped and swayed on his feet.

Petrillo is a cousin of Herman Petrillo, a Langhorne spaghetti salesman, and the first member of the ring to be sentenced to death for his part in the bizarre insurance-murder conspiracy.

Philadelphia's fantastic murder-for-profit ring purportedly took more than a score of lives over a period of eight years. Twenty-three men and women were tried on murder charges.

New Element

"A new element has entered the fight. Members representing labor are becoming restive. They are insisting that tariffs not be reduced so that foreign goods, which can be produced more cheaply than in this country, shall be admitted."

Rep. Pat Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip, after viewing final reports by his assistants said that "the amendments will be defeated and the bill passed."

Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts admitted that the huge Democratic majority probably will carry the measure through to passage, despite party defections.

"I suppose they have the votes," he said. "However, other countries require ratification of treaties. That is the Democratic process."

The measure's foes counted on 20 to 40 Democrats from Florida, Washington, California and the farming and cattle sections of the west joining with Republicans to approve an amendment for either senate or bicameral ratification.

Administration leaders contended that an amendment for senate ratification would make it possible for a minority group in the senate to filibuster and thus kill treaties.

its fundamentals and extends a welcome to all boys and men regardless of their faith.

A. H. Gonick, advisor to the A. Z. A. group, spoke of the outstanding progress the young Jewish boys have made toward building better Americans, who in later years will become leaders of the nation.

Benjamin Speaks

Lester Benjamin of Pittsburgh, dynamic, fiery, inspirational speaker, who was at one time an exchange student with China, told the boys that any boy in Europe would give his right arm to be in the place of any boy in America today. He compared the position of the youth of United States with that of the various countries in Europe; he brought out the freedom from espionage by a Gestapo or O. G. P. U. and the right of the youth of our country to speak his mind and think as he pleases without the commands of a dictator. He warned the youth of the danger of propagandists, and said "the propagandist has the right to speak, but the youth also has the right not to listen". He told he was proud of the heritage of a free country from his father and he hoped to be instrumental in handing down to his family the same heritage and that it is up the youth of today to keep this land of ours free. "We have the only kind of democracy that is a real democracy and we want to preserve it," he concluded.

Dr. Patterson Heard

Dr. Patterson of Central church brought out the fact that "a democracy is a theocracy" and a nation founded on a belief in God brings together all nationalities and if we forget the minor differences and concentrate on the major basic fundamentals we can all work together for the betterment of the democracy in which we live, regardless of whether we are Jew, Protestant or Catholic. He presented the ideals for the youth of today and brought out the differences in the social status of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, but stated they had both attained the highest office which is in the power of the United States to bestow. He urged the boys to hold to their ideals and in this manner youth would maintain the democracy we enjoy today.

At the close of the meeting, members of the A. Z. A., with Morton Love in charge, served refreshments.

Ted Marlin, president of A. Z. A., stated that the young Jewish organization plans to make the Washington birthday program an annual affair.

next major objective. Latest reports said Russian troops were within 14 miles of Viborg.

Russian infantry attacks rolled against the Finnish defenses in quick succession as Voroshilov hurled thousands of men into action in a frantic attempt to break through the Finnish lines. Advices received at noon said that Finnish forces were holding out "splendidly" but disclosed that the Russian attacks are increasing in violence hourly.

One dramatic report from the front told of a gallant band of Finns holding out against terrific Soviet onslaughts in the island fortress of Koivisto, thereby seriously impeding the Soviet advance against the western end of the Mannerheim line.

Bring Up Big Guns

On other sections of the Carelian front, the Russians struggled to bring up their big guns to pound the already ruined city of Viborg, Finland's second largest metropolis, which the Russians hope to capture today to add to the Soviet celebrations of the 22nd birthday of the Red army.

The "death brigade" in Koivisto fortress was reported hampering the Soviet operations by means of a deadly enfilading fire directed against the attacking Russians.

Artillery batteries at the Finnish fortress also pounded Russian detachments attempting to bring up their big guns for a siege of the fort.

"Editor's note: Earlier this week a Soviet communique claimed the Koivisto fortress had been captured. Finnish military authorities officially denied this claim. Later advices via Stockholm explained that the Russians appeared to have captured the mainland town of Koivisto but not the island fortress.

In Last Ditch Fight

In the face of the newest Russian assaults, the Finns were fighting a last-ditch battle from defenses before their second line positions, about five miles from the advance positions which they abandoned after withstanding the Russian offensive for about three weeks.

Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, the Finnish commander-in-chief, was reported anxiously awaiting additional reinforcements. In addition to Finns between the ages of 44 and 46, Helsinki authorities already have called up thousands of foreign volunteers who are now flocking across the nation's boundaries to fight under the Finnish flag.

Today's fighting on the Carelian front was raging under a blizzard which was increasing in intensity and piling up huge drifts over the blood-stained battle lines and frozen corpses of dead soldiers. Reports from the front, however, said that the snow has not yet fallen in sufficient quantities to halt the Russian push.

Military dispatches stated that the Finns were still holding out all along the Mannerheim line, but that the Russian onslaught has brought the Red army units within 14 miles of Viborg at the nearest point.

If an expected thaw sets in, officials said, it may prove decisive in helping the Finns by bogging down the Russian mechanized forces.

It appeared that the Soviet troops have not yet come into direct contact with the main second-line defenses of the Mannerheim front, but are still being held back by the Finns from outer defenses situated in front of the second line.

$10,000 For Three-Letter Word

Offer Is Made To Small Girl

SPECIAL TEST HAS BEEN PREPARED

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The late Calvin Coolidge was paid one dollar a word for his writings but a four-year-old girl was offered ten thousand dollars today if she can read a single three letter word — $3,333.33 a letter.

The little lass is Faith Hope Charity Harding of Trucksville, Pa., reported to have a strong psychic sense, and the offer was made by the universal council for psychic research headed by Joseph Dunninger, magician and non-believer in psychic forces.

Special Test

"We have prepared a special test, a simple one for Faith Hope Charity if she is possessed of genuine psychic powers," Dunninger reported. "We have in the past offered up to $31,000 to any person who could read any one of three ten-word messages contained in a sealed envelope. Because this child is so young we brought the test down to her age level. One three letter word in a sealed envelope and $10,000 for her if she can tell us what it is."

Dunniger revealed that an average of 5,000 persons try annually to "read" the 10-ward messages and none has ever succeeded.

Prize Once $31,000

"At one time the prize was $31,000," he said. "Mrs. Harry Houdini puts up $10,000, the council for psychic research put up $10,000, a magazine put up $10,000 and an independent investigator put up a thousand. For one reason or another the offers were withdrawn except ours. The $10,000 is still here for anybody to shoot at."

Dunninger had 60 letters today—an average number—from persons who by use of the ouija board, automatic writing or some other inspiration hoped to solve the three secret ten-word messages.

In the past year, approximately 150 persons appeared in person and offered their version of one or another of the sealed messages. None was successful.

And none of the 5,000 hopefuls who write annually have ever come close, Dunninger reported.

ports of aggressive Russian intentions towards Turkey.

The Russian press evidently was replying to reports stating that 350,000 of Turkey's 500,000 troops are concentrated along the Soviet frontier and that large Turkish air bases constructed by French and British experts already have 500 war planes ready to attack the Soviet union.

that Welles set sail from New York, tactiturn but seemingly confident that he might be able to find some avenue of approach toward an international settlement before Europe's cities become a shambles and her civilization a collective corpse.

It was on that very day that the Altmark was boarded and on that day that the Mannerheim line began to crack, opening for Josef Stalin the vista of a new day when he might be freed from Finnish burdens and allowed opportunity to launch Soviet aggrandizement elsewhere.

Coincidences such as these are uncanny. So much so that one must suspect premeditation, particularly in the case of Dr. Karl Clodius, German economic wizard and financial bludgeoner extraordinary.

Pressure On Rumania

For he is due in Bucharest to put the pressure on Rumania regarding oil exports enabling Germany to keep her Mobile army and air force in action on the very day that Welles is due in Berlin.

Since Welles left New York, the whole European picture has become a jumble of ominous portents and dangerous potentialities. In comparison, the situation before then was almost simple and clear-cut.

Today, with the Rex plowing toward Italy, there is presumably a British fleet swinging in battle formation off Russian Arctic ports, a growing fear of some major Soviet move through the caucasus to the middle east and a very strong possibility that the long-dormant Rumanian problem will flare into pyrotechnics before the week is out.

Under the circumstances, it is logical for observers to ask whether any conceivable good can possibly come out of Welles' mission.

To this question, there is no answer at the moment. To judge by the cables from Berlin, the Germans want nothing more than to have his ear for an hour or two while Philippics are delivered against England, and the wise men of Whitehall will be equally glad of an opportunity to tell him—and through him tell America—how naughty the Germans are.

But if present omens can be heeded, mere words will be drowned out in a roar of momentous developments while Welles and his briefcase traverse the war-barricaded roads of Europe.

At the same time it was announced officially that German aircraft attacked and sank the British naval trawler Fifeshire, 535 tons, with the apparent loss of two officers and 19 seamen. Only one survivor was rescued.

The German aircraft also bombed and machine-gunned the 348-ton naval trawler Solon, but were driven off before sinking the vessel, which arrived safely in port.

Yesterday's German air raids along the British east coast cost the Reich two bombing planes which were shot down by R. A. F. fighters.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Paul Petrillo, 44, one of the alleged masterminds of the notorious Philadelphit murder-for-insurance conspiracy, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair by Judges Frank Smith and Theodore Rosen.

Defense counsel objected to the imposition of sentence in view of the death of the third member of the court, which decided the penalty without a jury after the erstwhile tailor shop owner pleaded guilty.

The defendant heard his doom pronounced in silence, but closed his eyes, gulped and swayed on his feet.

Petrillo is a cousin of Herman Petrillo, a Langhorne spaghetti salesman, and the first member of the ring to be sentenced to death for his part in the bizarre insurance-murder conspiracy.

Philadelphia's fantastic murder-for-profit ring purportedly took more than a score of lives over a period of eight years. Twenty-three men and women were tried on murder charges.

tion of an amendment requiring senate ratification," said Rep. Harry Coffee (D) Nebraska, who will offer it. "I think most members from western states will be for it. The vote will be close.

New Element

"A new element has entered the fight. Members representing labor are becoming restive. They are insisting that tariffs not be reduced so that foreign goods, which can be produced more cheaply than in this country, shall be admitted."

Rep. Pat Boland of Pennsylvania, Democratic whip, after viewing final reports by his assistants said that "the amendments will be defeated and the bill passed."

Republican leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts admitted that the huge Democratic majority probably will carry the measure through to passage, despite party defections.

"I suppose they have the votes," he said. "However, other countries require ratification of treaties. That is the Democratic process."

The measure's foes counted on 20 to 40 Democrats from Florida, Washington, California and the farming and cattle sections of the west joining with Republicans to approve an amendment for either senate or bicameral ratification.

Administration leaders contended that an amendment for senate ratification would make it possible for a minority group in the senate to filibuster and thus kill treaties.

GUARD DEMOCRACY YOUTH RALLY TOLD

its fundamentals and extends a welcome to all boys and men regardless of their faith.

A. H. Gonick, advisor to the A. Z. A. group, spoke of the outstanding progress the young Jewish boys have made toward building better Americans, who in later years will become leaders of the nation.

Benjamin Speaks

Lester Benjamin of Pittsburgh, dynamic, fiery, inspirational speaker, who was at one time an exchange student with China, told the boys that any boy in Europe would give his right arm to be in the place of any boy in America today. He compared the position of the youth of United States with that of the various countries in Europe; he brought out the freedom from espionage by a Gestapo or O. G. P. U. and the right of the youth of our country to speak his mind and think as he pleases without the commands of a dictator. He warned the youth of the danger of propagandists, and said "the propagandist has the right to speak, but the youth also has the right not to listen". He told he was proud of the heritage of a free country from his father and he hoped to be instrumental in handing down to his family the same heritage and that it is up the youth of today to keep this land of ours free. "We have the only kind of democracy that is a real democracy and we want to preserve it," he concluded.

Dr. Patterson Heard

Dr. Patterson of Central church brought out the fact that "a democracy is a theocracy" and a nation founded on a belief in God brings together all nationalities and if we forget the minor differences and concentrate on the major basic fundamentals we can all work together for the betterment of the democracy in which we live, regardless of whether we are Jew, Protestant or Catholic. He presented the ideals for the youth of today and brought out the differences in the social status of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln, but stated they had both attained the highest office which is in the power of the United States to bestow. He urged the boys to hold to their ideals and in this manner youth would maintain the democracy we enjoy today.

At the close of the meeting, members of the A. Z. A., with Morton Love in charge, served refreshments.

Ted Marlin, president of A. Z. A., stated that the young Jewish organization plans to make the Washington birthday program an annual affair.

(This report added that the Finns have blown up the railway from Viborg to the town of Koivisto at the western end of the Mannerheim line, which the Russians claimed despite Finnish denials to have captured several days ago. The railway, the Express said, is now in the hands of the Russians.)

RUSSIANS SEEK VIBORG CAPTURE ON ANNIVERSARY

next major objective. Latest reports said Russian troops were within 14 miles of Viborg.

Russian infantry attacks rolled against the Finnish defenses in quick succession as Voroshilov hurled thousands of men into action in a frantic attempt to break through the Finnish lines. Advices received at noon said that Finnish forces were holding out "splendidly" but disclosed that the Russian attacks are increasing in violence hourly.

One dramatic report from the front told of a gallant band of Finns holding out against terrific Soviet onslaughts in the island fortress of Koivisto, thereby seriously impeding the Soviet advance against the western end of the Mannerheim line.

Bring Up Big Guns

On other sections of the Carelian front, the Russians struggled to bring up their big guns to pound the already ruined city of Viborg, Finland's second largest metropolis, which the Russians hope to capture today to add to the Soviet celebrations of the 22nd birthday of the Red army.

The "death brigade" in Koivisto fortress was reported hampering the Soviet operations by means of a deadly enfilading fire directed against the attacking Russians.

Artillery batteries at the Finnish fortress also pounded Russian detachments attempting to bring up their big guns for a siege of the fort.

"Editor's note: Earlier this week a Soviet communique claimed the Koivisto fortress had been captured. Finnish military authorities officially denied this claim. Later advices via Stockholm explained that the Russians appeared to have captured the mainland town of Koivisto but not the island fortress.

In Last Ditch Fight

In the face of the newest Russian assaults, the Finns were fighting a last-ditch battle from defenses before their second line positions, about five miles from the advance positions which they abandoned after withstanding the Russian offensive for about three weeks.

Field Marshal Carl Gustav Mannerheim, the Finnish commander-in-chief, was reported anxiously awaiting additional reinforcements. In addition to Finns between the ages of 44 and 46, Helsinki authorities already have called up thousands of foreign volunteers who are now flocking across the nation's boundaries to fight under the Finnish flag.

Today's fighting on the Carelian front was raging under a blizzard which was increasing in intensity and piling up huge drifts over the blood-stained battle lines and frozen corpses of dead soldiers. Reports from the front, however, said that the snow has not yet fallen in sufficient quantities to halt the Russian push.

Military dispatches stated that the Finns were still holding out all along the Mannerheim line, but that the Russian onslaught has brought the Red army units within 14 miles of Viborg at the nearest point.

If an expected thaw sets in, officials said, it may prove decisive in helping the Finns by bogging down the Russian mechanized forces.

It appeared that the Soviet troops have not yet come into direct contact with the main second-line defenses of the Mannerheim front, but are still being held back by the Finns from outer defenses situated in front of the second line.

SWINGING THE CONSERVATISM

MAJORITY political opinion in the United States consists of tides of conservatism alternating with an occasional tide of radicalism. The phenomenon is not exclusive with this country but occurs wherever opinion is free to express itself politically.

The ebb and flow are not regularly spaced in time, perhaps because various fortuitous factors, like war or depression, usually play a part in it. But the inevitability of change, of ebb and flow, is so well established as to suggest the presence of an underlying cause, a factor of fatigue perhaps, which might produce a regular periodicity if fortuitious factors were not also always present.

Probably it is the system, more than the people themselves, which requires change. The capitalist system must function through the operation of a myriad of individual enterprisers who must summon the confidence to enterprise. Thus the system thrives best on stability, on circumstances that promote confidence.

The effect of novel governmental measures is apt to be unsettling. They cause fear and caution, which are the reverse of enterprise. This is a fact of history. Political success by the reform party or faction usually has been followed, where it has not been immediately accompanied, by a period of bad business.

Thus periods of reform and experimentation in due course must be followed by periods of profitable calm, since the people must live.

At present it seems certain the nation stands at the turning point of a ten-year tide of radicalism. Ten years, in the light of prior experience, is a long time for a reform period to last. A conservative tide is due, if not overdue. If one is about to set in, prior experience shows the country is in for happier times.

SNARING THE TAXPAYERS

A short time ago an official of the federal government's Bonneville Dam project announced that the Pacific Northwest was faced with a serious shortage of power. The obvious implication is that this should cause the government to spend more of the taxpayers' millions for more tax-free government generating plants.

Whether the Pacific Northwest or any other section of the country really is confronted with a power crisis is a moot question. But if it is, the reason is perfectly apparent. During the last seven or eight years, investment in new facilities by private utilities has been discouraged by the government itself. Responsible utility executives have reiterated time and again their desire to expand their plants. Why haven't they done so? Because the federal power socialization program, which has directly or indirectly menaced the very life of every private utility in the land, has made it practically impossible for the industry to attract and protect the necessary new capital.

Economists figure the private utilities could spend at least a billion dollars a year or more on expansion and plant betterment if they were given the assurance that they would be permitted to stay in business, earn a moderate profit, and be freed of the spectre of tax-subsidized federal competition which no private citizen can meet.

"Government competition with the utilities has caused a power shortage—therefore government must compete further to make it up"—that is the trap the utility baiters set. The worst sufferer is the common taxpayer who has been snared for close to two billion dollars for electrical projects which would otherwise have been built with private funds and which would have paid gigantic sums in taxes instead of being tax-free. And the end is not in sight.

BELONGS TO HISTORY

When Huey Long—the Louisiana Kingfish—called twenty-two of his cronies on the telephone in 1932 and asked them to go to the Chicago Democratic convention as delegates, Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated for president. For it was the votes of Huey Long's "delegation" that swung the tide. Long's hand-picked men were seated with the efforts of Farley and the regularly-named delegates were thrown out of the convention.

All that is history now. The Long dynasty in Louisiana is history now, too, only a scant half decade after the death of the Kingfish, due to the defeat of Earl Long in the gubernatorial run-off primary by Sam H. Jones, a political newcomer pledged to the annihilation of Longism in Louisiana.

History contains some strange things, but nothing stranger than the story of Huey Long, dictator of Louisiana and president-maker.

Long ruled Louisiana in about the same manner that Mussolini rules Italy. He would call the "legislature" into session, dash down to Baton Rouge from his labors at Washington, and proclaim new laws to hamstring business, raise taxes, and punish his enemies. As an afterthought, the "legislature" would place its stamp upon the Huey proclamations.

Several times the higher-ups in the Long connection were threatened with federal grand jury action on income tax charges, etc., but every time some mysterious force stayed the proceedings. Certain it is that the citizens of Louisiana had no help from President Roosevelt in their long struggle to throw off the Long yoke.

But the dictatorship has toppled, and if prison doors do not open in short order most persons will be greatly surprised. When Huey proclaimed a law making receipts and expenditures of the state treasury secret—not even available to newspapers—he succeeded in an accomplishment that was unique in the history of American political gangs. Much light should be thrown on this accomplishment now.

CHANGE NEEDED

"Rent this apartment" echoed the prospective tenant, looking at the small proportions of the place. "Why there isn't room enough here to swing a cat around."

"If that is so," said the agent, "you'll have to change your pastime if you want to live here."

He was very fat, and stood behind an irritable elderly woman in a line waiting to get into a local show.

"Stop your pushing—can't you?" said the woman.

"Excuse, me, madam. I did not push—I only sighed" said the fat one.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAINING PARENTS FROM CRADLE

Good child rearing is good education for marriage and family life.

A young man and woman are about to be married. What in their background will best predict their marital happiness? Terman and his collaborators answer in their Psychological Factors in Marital Happiness, published in 1938. Among the items they rank foremost are: superior happiness of parents, childhood happiness, lack of conflict with parents, home, discipline that was firm but not harsh, strong attachment to both parents and parental frankness about sex matters.

A very similar investigation by Burgess and Cottrell, Predicting Success and Failure of Marriages, appearing in 1939, arrived at practically the same conclusions. Both of these groups of investigators on marriage found as foremost in favoring marital happiness the very items which in this column, we have been considering foremost in good parenthood and child guidance.

Important Relationship

Several years ago as I was discussing some of the things we parents ought to keep in mind, before one of my university classes, a mother said: "You mean, then, that our job as parents is to bring up our children, not only to be good men and women, but also to be good husbands and wives, and good fathers and mothers?"

"Exactly what I mean" was my reply.

The most important relationships in the family for wholesome child rearing are father-mother relationships—the very ones these investigators ranked foremost for furthering marital happiness of the child later. We must have these relationships before we can get wholesome parent-child relationships.

To those of us interested in wholesome marriages and family life, it is heartening to see so many colleges and universities offering courses on marriage and family life.

Nevertheless, the major factors affecting marital happiness have been developing and operating since birth, even before. Obviously, the big problem of education for marriage is the problem of education for life, of education from the cradle onward. The most strategic period, so far as later marriage is concerned, is childhood in the family. Therefore, wise parenthood means wise education of the children at home for marriage and parenthood.

In this column, therefore, we discuss from day to day those problems which have to do with the marital happiness and wider family happiness of succeeding generations as well as with parents of this generation.

Keeping this in mind ought to help us parents try harder to be intelligent parents: try harder too, to get along companionably and happily as husband and wife.

These two investigations in marriage reveal, furthermore, that sex as such is a relatively minor item in marital happiness and indicate that far too much emphasis has been placed on sex in recent marriage literature. Self-discipline and mutual regard by each of the married couples for the personality of the other are so much more potent. The foundation for such an attitude we parents desire to build in our children as they grow up with us.

What Noted People Say

International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — William McC. Martin, New York Stock Exchange prexy, hails dedication of the old sub-treasury building, the first U. S. capitol, as a national shrine:

"Wall Street remains today, in every sense of the word, a national street and one that still stands in its rightful place as a bulwark of strength against the forces which endeavor to upset the form of government under which this country has developed."

NEW YORK — Sen. Gerald P. Nye urges Americans to hearken to George Washington's advice:

"I defy anyone to find in the great advice left by Washington any urge upon any American government to determine that its frontier is on the Rhine or in France or that the obligation is ours to police any portion of this world, removed from our own place in it."

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:43. Sun rises tomorrow 6:44.

Over in Ohio, a man named Bees is going to run for the office of county commissioner. It looks like somebody is in for a stinging.

Two people died from over-exertion shoveling snow from their walks in Pittsburgh, during the recent heavy storm. That is one thing that some New Castle residents need never be afraid of, judging by the looks of their sidewalks after a snow storm. If it wasn't for Mother Nature eventually melting it off, some of these people would be snowed in forever.

"Not exactly," he replied, "it was the tin can tied to his tail that did the most damage."

Two sisters living near me are equally attractive as far as physical points are concerned. Joan has a date seven nights in the week but her swains are without exception wise-cracking jitterbugs with little between the ears except bone. If any of them gets beyond the $25.00 a week class, it will be a miracle. A majority of Priscilla's evenings are spent at home between book-covers. Consequently she can entertain the responsible type of men who not have every night to frivol—the type who will probably reach the board of directors. Contentment, poise and self-sufficiency are developed best by those who are trained by others or who train themselves to spend a goodly proportion of hours each week concentrating on the art of philosophy of master minds. Such concentration demands solitude, and begets contentment, you have noted that girls who do not thus occupy part of their leisure are restless, ill-at-ease and nerve-disturbing to men beyond the rah rah age.

What's What At A Glance

Poor Spelling Injures Stories
Stewart Recalls Errors Of Past
Peculiar Names Are Mis-Spelled

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—I saw a newspaper reference the other day to ex-Senator "Buckley" of Ohio. "Buckley" was the way it was spelled. Of course I knew that ex-Senator Bulkley was the individual referred to. But in the six years that he was on Capitol Hill I don't think I saw his name so spelled half a dozen times, except in the Congressional Directory, which specializes on not making that kind of mistake.

Whenever a political writer mentions a prominent public man and spells his name incorrectly I always wonder if that writer knows, in general, what he's talking about.

But that suspicion probably's unjust to the writer. Even if his spelling IS right, it's a safe bet that some editor or printer or proofreader will "correct" it for him, in a certain class of cases, in the "Buckley" category.

Incidentally, Bulkley's (or Buckley's) first name and middle initial are Robert J. Yet somehow, while he was in Washington, the impression got abroad that his front name was Roy. Most capital correspondents fell for it. It's as "Roy J. Buckley" that he'll go down in history.

We once had a Senator Felix Hebert of Rhode Island in Congress. Does anybody suppose that he ever got his name printed "Hebert?" Not by a darned sight! It always was printed "Herbert."

More Of The Same

Then there was Representative John M. Robsion of Kentucky. He was a highly notable legislator. There was no more excuse for misspelling his name than there would be for misspelling John N. Garner's. But of course he always figured as "Robison" or, oftener, "Robinson."

For a long time in Congress, as a representative from Tennessee, was one Ewin L. Davis, now a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Can that bird get his first name spelled "Ewin" in the newspapers? I should say not. It goes in "Edwin" regularly.

Not so long ago I ran across a newspaper reference, right in a Washington daily, to Joseph T. Robinson as a late senator (he's dead) from Alabama.

Senator Robinson was enough of a notability to have been Democratic majority leader of the upper congressional chamber. He occasionally was suggested as a presidential possibility. "Sic transit gloria

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

(Copyright, 1940) by The Baltimore Sun

The Vice-Presidency

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.

AT this stage of the proceedings, friends of the various aspirants for the Presidency in both political parties assert with great positiveness that their particular favorite, under no circumstances, will accept the Vice-Presidential nomination. With him, they say, it is first place or nothing.

HE would rather run for Governor of New York, or stay in the Senate or go back to private life, than take the second place. Most of which is bunk and generally understood as such in political circles. Obviously, there is no other pre-convention attitude a man aspiring to the Presidency can take. There is nothing else he or his friends can say. So long as he has a chance for the first place it would be practically ruinous to let the impression prevail that he could be induced to accept the second.

AT ONCE he would diminish in political importance—cease to be a Presidential possibility and become merely a favorite son. Every candidate knows that. Hence, the serious ones take pains promptly to spike any report that they might be persuaded to consider the Vice-Presidency. Some of them mean it at the time; others do not. But even those who do are careful not definitely and irrevocably to slam the door or personally make an unequivocal statement on the subject.

ONE reason is that they hardly can afford to refuse something that has not yet been offered. Another is that such a preconvention statement about the Vice-President easily might react unfavorably on a candidate's Presidential aspirations. It would give his opponents opportunity to assert that he has an exaggerated idea of his own importance. They could also say that he thought more of his own personal fortunes than he did either of the party or the country.

THE fact is that after its candidate for President has been nominated, should the Republican convention, for example, unanimously turn to the outstanding unsuccessful aspirant and nominate him for the second place he would be put in a position where, regardless of his wishes, it would be very difficult to decline. To refuse such a call would make him seem both a selfish man and a bad-loser. Not many men will resist that kind of party pressure—particularly if applied as an appeal to patriotism. Undoubtedly the unsuccessful aspirant, before the convention meets, many times will have declared his conviction that the success of his party is vital to the national health. In face of that, an unsuccessful Presidential candidate hardly can turn down, without a better reason than that he prefers another place, a demand of such character made upon him. In other words, even the most reluctant can be drafted.

AND then there is another reason. It of course, is unpleasant to talk of the chances of an elected President dying before his term is out. Nevertheless, that thought is in the minds of the politicians in every Presidential campaign—and naturally—inasmuch as our history shows that the chances of a Vice-President succeeding to the Presidency is at least one in five. Particularly, this thought intrudes in this year—because of the extraordinary record of a hundred years in which, beginning with 1840, no President elected in the twentieth year thereafter has lived out his term or terms.

THERE was William Henry Harrison, elected in 1840 and died in 1841; Abraham Lincoln, elected in 1860, assassinated in 1865; James A. Garfield, elected in 1880, assassinated in 1881; William McKinley, elected in 1900, assassinated in 1901; Warren G. Harding, elected in 1920, died 1923. Now, this is 1940, which would seem to be the fatal year to get elected. Of course, there is nothing in that. No sensible man will regard the mortality among the Presidents elected in these years as anything but coincidences without significance. However, there is among politicians in both parties a great deal of conversation on the subject and certainly these dates are widely discussed, and with avid interest and concern. The politicians take them into their calculations. They wouldn't be politicians if they didn't.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MICHAEL FARADAY

"Edison, the Boy" and "Edison, the Man" are two Motion Pictures of today and they depict the life of one who not only produced electrical devices but built up a great manufacturing organization for the making and merchandising of his inventions.

In our exuberant admiration for the man, we may have forgotten Michael Faraday who one hundred years ago made fundamental discoveries upon which have been based the dynamo, the transformer, the induction coil, the electric motor, wireless telegraphy, radio and all the thousands of practical applications of electricity.

These have transformed the world and yet it has been truthfully said that probably no one would have given a cent for any of Faraday's discoveries on the day when they were made. Once someone asked Faraday what was the use of one of his discoveries.

"What is the use of a baby?" the great scientist answered.

And so it is; not what a thing is that counts, but what it will grow into. So it is with any new truth. So it is with any boy or girl. The great men and women of the world are those who are willing and eager to work with things and persons at their beginning, for they know that it is the opening years that tell on history and in progress.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

COLD REMEDIES OF OLD

In days of old to cure a cold,
The neighbor women ran
To torture me with flaxseed tea
Stewed in a two-quart pan.
The willing tribe would then prescribe
What each considered best,
From caster oil to patent soil,
Thick-smeared upon the chest.

From chin to knees, with poultices
Front areas and back
Upon my bed they burned me red
And then with ipecac
And quinine pills and fluid squills,
Fig syrup, senna tea
And camomile, in neighbor style,
They hourly doctored me.

In days of old a compress cold
Was grandma's pet advice
But good Aunt Sue would add thereto
A Spanish onion slice.
The grease of goose was then in use
And 'til the coughing ceased,
'Tis truth I write, by day and night
My front and back were greased.

As I recall when I was small
To cure a common cold
Till I was rid of it they did
Whatever they were told.
And looking back upon that stack
Of means to make me well
I marvel now that I somehow
Still live the tale to tell.

Over 52,000 Books In Public Library

At the present time there are 52,651 books available at the local library, and during 1939, these books were read by an estimated 48,674 people in the City of New Castle. These facts along with many others of interest regarding the library, were issued this week in the annual report, furnished by the librarian, Miss Alice Sterling, to the board of trustees.

It was revealed in the report that the library books were each circulated five different times and that the per capita circulation was 5.5 books, several points higher than the averages of other comparable libraries.

The main library reported an increase of 3.8 per cent circulation, over the previous year's figures. During 1939, a total of 4,253 books were added to the library and 1,517 were withdrawn or discarded.

According to Miss Sterling's report, 268,377 books were loaned for home use.

Use of the library is made available to any resident of the city, free of charge. Many persons take this for granted, never imagining that each book they borrow costs the library 9 cents each time it leaves the building. here is an expenditure of 50 cents per capita also invested at the local library.

Total circulation figure for the five branch libraries in the city for the past year was listed at 114,525. The spacious reading rooms of the institutions were visited by approximately 25,379 persons. This figure is undoubtedly low due to the difficulty in keeping track of the visitors.

Did you borrow 19 books from the library in 1939? If not, you were below the average, for it has been estimated that each borrower read 19 books last year.

The 268,377 books loaned for home use were divided up as follows: Adult fiction, 144,658; adult non-fiction, 32,290; juvenile fiction, 60,946; juvenile non-fiction, 29,271; foreign books, 1,212.

There were 2,898 persons who registered as new borrowers last year, thus availing themselves of library privileges, and 1,187 persons re-registered.

During the past year, the local library was represented at the district meeting at Ambridge, the Pennsylvania Library association meeting at Hershey, and the American Library association meeting at San Francisco.

Many fine exhibits were arranged during the year in the display case in the main hall of the building. The garden center and assembly rooms were popular places in the building, being the scene of many public events and activities. The Four-County Library club held a convention in the New Castle building.

The justices are B. J. Rosensteel and W. E. Rose of Austintown Township, C. E. Martin of Boardman Township and Charles E. Rutter of Jackson Township.

In Rosensteel's case there were 100 such instances, Gockenbach's report said, with the costs being split between the squire and his constable.

"If I want to divide the $7.80 court costs with the constable, that's no one's business but his and mine," Rosensteel asserted.

Bell Company Shows Increase

Healthy Net Gain In Number Of Telephones Is Shown By Pennsylvania Company

In its annual report for 1939, the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania records a net gain of 59,042 telephones for the year.

This compares with 28,469 in 1938 and 72,030 in 1937. Total Bell telephones in service in Pennsylvania at the close of 1939 were 1,293,015.

The increase in the number of telephones in service, preparation for future growth, and the preservation of the telephone plant and equipment at highly efficient levels required gross additions to plant and equipment amounting to $17,898,250 during 1939.

The company now has two units of portable radio telephone equipment for use, under license granted by the Federal Communications Commission, when flood, fire or like emergency disrupts the normal service. With this mobile equipment it is possible to bridge breaks in telephone toll lines and establish emergency connections with communities isolated through failure of all other means of communication. During the past year, 90 employees qualified for membership in the Bell Telephone Hundred Thousand Mile Club by completing ten years, or the equivalent of 100,000 Miles, of driving without having been responsible for an accident of any kind. This club, established in 1938, now has a membership of 655 employees.

On December 31, the organization numbered 16,363 employees, and the total payroll for the year was $30,489,685.

In its annual report for 1939, the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania records a net gain of 59,042 telephones for the year.

This compares with 28,469 in 1938 and 72,030 in 1937. Total Bell telephones in service in Pennsylvania at the close of 1939 were 1,293,015.

The increase in the number of telephones in service, preparation for future growth, and the preservation of the telephone plant and equipment at highly efficient levels required gross additions to plant and equipment amounting to $17,898,250 during 1939.

The company now has two units of portable radio telephone equipment for use, under license granted by the Federal Communications Commission, when flood, fire or like emergency disrupts the normal service. With this mobile equipment it is possible to bridge breaks in telephone toll lines and establish emergency connections with communities isolated through failure of all other means of communication. During the past year, 90 employees qualified for membership in the Bell Telephone Hundred Thousand Mile Club by completing ten years, or the equivalent of 100,000 Miles, of driving without having been responsible for an accident of any kind. This club, established in 1938, now has a membership of 655 employees.

On December 31, the organization numbered 16,363 employees, and the total payroll for the year was $30,489,685.

Back To Farm Movement Worth Support Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1940, Publishers Financial Bureau)

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 23.—Naturally I get many letters from readers of this column. Just recently I received a most interesting letter from G. C. Konkler of Mena, Arkansas, telling of his personal experiences. He had lost his city job during the depression and had to decide between going back to the land or going onto relief. He chose the former and drifted to the enterprising town of Mena in the Ouachita Mountains, just a stone's throw from the Oklahoma line. There he and his family started again with absolutely nothing—just as did the Pilgrims when they landed on the shores of Massachusetts Bay in 1620.

BABSON

Of course, his family had no money for movies, radio, or gasoline. They built their own hut out of cast off boxes and other waste material on the outskirts of the town. He got a job for one dollar a day and the family lived upon it and saved money from the first week. They lived on oatmeal, milk, tough meat, and greens. They slept on straw and made their own furniture—but they were healthy and happy. The children made their own clothes and went to school. When Spring came they planted a garden in which they all worked.

Answer To Steinbeck

Then the father decided to rent a cheap vacant store—to sell goods when the chain stores were closed and the other merchants were at the movies. I will not go into more details, but in view of all the sensational and sentimental publicity being focused on tenant farmers as a result of John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath", Mr. Konkler's story interested me very much. Hence, I wrote three leading people in Mena to see if what Mr. Konkler wrote me were true. They replied that every word was true.

I then asked Mr. Konkler to expand his ideas. Both he and I believe that the small farm offers a real opportunity to thousands now working on relief jobs. Developing and working the land would bring them more happiness, health, good living, and sound security than most of them will ever achieve in any other way. Today, too many families are just one pay check better off than they were several years ago. Surely any thinking person must know that something more durable must be tried to remedy conditions. All, so far, have been merely shots in the arm to ease the pain.

Relief Killed Movement

In 1932, Mr. Konkler drove a $150 Ford 500 miles into the mountains of Arkansas. He found thousands of people out of jobs. Families, however, with just a little money left, were going back to the farms, making new lives for themselves, and liking it. They were blotting themselves from charity rolls and improving the general situation. Yet, most of such efforts collapsed when Uncle Sam opened his relief purse. Today, hundreds of homes lie desolate and abandoned. Meanwhile, their former tenants purchase, with their relief pittance, quantities of products such as those acres could have produced.

It is Mr. Konkler's contention that farm development built this country in the first place. Therefore, he believes that only the development of our idle acres will today solve our relief problems. New pioneers on subsistence farms would not jump farm production much, would not add to farm surpluses. It would stimulate business and trade in scattered areas, as these 1940 pioneers would have to buy every kind of farm tool and necessity. Best of all, this development would not skyrocket the national debt.

Needed: Men With A Will

I am not referring to resettlement projects of the type the government has tried in spots,—setting people down with high-falutin homes, giving them all modern conveniences, launching them with a hopeless debt. Let them begin just as their forefathers did, if they can do no better. What our country needs right now is THE MAN WITH A WILL. We need more men, more families, with the will to shun government help, with the will to take hold wherever they can, with the will to do their best with what they have to do with! Personal initiative was what made this country great, and only personal initiative will solve its present problems! Let me quote Mr. Konkler:

"Our leaders, as a rule, are just plain afraid to suggest, even faintly, that individuals who are in need of help should help themselves. They fear to recommend the old fashioned virtues and the personal advantages of going gack to constructive work. I am not an idealist. I know all the loafers can never be converted to the advantages of hard work. But I do feel sure that a national drive along such lines, using plain talk instead of taffy, would greatly increase the percentage of those trying to help themselves.

Better Than War

"Farm relief measures have been policital footballs; each candidate trying to increase the 'benefits' to the voting farmers back home. Instead of these handouts, we should encourage individual families to move back to farms. The men of these families would go to war to save their country. Wouldn't it be much more pleasant to go back to the land and save themselves as well as their country,—starting as farm hands or renters, then on up to ownership and security, just as people used to do? Think of the happy days—as they gained self-respect and independence, inch by inch. I know because I have been through it. Nothing else will ever bring them more happiness, satisfaction, or security!"

I do not need to add to Mr. Konkler's comments. He has summed up the situation concisely and emphasized a very fundamental principle.

Maxine W. Stetson Does Play Review

"Man Who Came To Dinner" Reviewed At Claire Brown Millinery Opening

Currently attracting the Broadway show shoppers is the dramatic cartoon of George S. Kaufman, 'The Man Who Came To Dinner', and currently attracting the women of New Castle is the opening of the new Claire Brown shop at the corner of Mill and North streets.

The two events were tied together Thursday afternoon in The Castleton hotel when Maxine Stetson, a talented play reviewer, dramatized the play for a ballroom full of women who attended the millinery show of Louie Miller hats as a feature of the new store opening.

Miss Stetson has a magnetic voice and a gift of mimicry that brought the characters of Sheridan Whiteside, Magpie, Lord Bottomley, Beverly Carleton and the rest of the cast to life. She also gave a synopsis of "The Philadelphia Story" and "Du Barry Was a Lady". Miss Stetson was introduced by Mrs. James Green.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Gordon Klein, Mrs. William Hinkson, Mrs. J. W. Miller, Mrs. Charles Whalen, Miss Dorothy Young and Mrs. Malcolm Davis. Between 500 and 600 women of the city attended the millinery show.

"Farm relief measures have been policital footballs; each candidate trying to increase the 'benefits' to the voting farmers back home. Instead of these handouts, we should encourage individual families to move back to farms. The men of these families would go to war to save their country. Wouldn't it be much more pleasant to go back to the land and save themselves as well as their country,—starting as farm hands or renters, then on up to ownership and security, just as people used to do? Think of the happy days—as they gained self-respect and independence, inch by inch. I know because I have been through it. Nothing else will ever bring them more happiness, satisfaction, or security!"

I do not need to add to Mr. Konkler's comments. He has summed up the situation concisely and emphasized a very fundamental principle.

Maxine W. Stetson Does Play Review

"Man Who Came To Dinner" Reviewed At Claire Brown Millinery Opening

Currently attracting the Broadway show shoppers is the dramatic cartoon of George S. Kaufman, 'The Man Who Came To Dinner', and currently attracting the women of New Castle is the opening of the new Claire Brown shop at the corner of Mill and North streets.

The two events were tied together Thursday afternoon in The Castleton hotel when Maxine Stetson, a talented play reviewer, dramatized the play for a ballroom full of women who attended the millinery show of Louie Miller hats as a feature of the new store opening.

Miss Stetson has a magnetic voice and a gift of mimicry that brought the characters of Sheridan Whiteside, Magpie, Lord Bottomley, Beverly Carleton, and the rest of the cast to life. She also gave a synopsis of "The Philadelphia Story" and "Du Barry Was a Lady". Miss Stetson was introduced by Mrs. James Green.

Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Gordon Klein, Mrs. William Hinkson, Mrs. J. W. Miller, Mrs. Charles Whalen, Miss Dorothy Young and Mrs. Malcolm Davis. Between 500 and 600 women of the city attended the millinery show.

LEAVE WORD SERVICE
(International News Service)

NEW YORK—The New York Telephone company recently instituted a "leave word" service which allows a subscriber who is going to be away from his telephone to leave a message for any callers. The subscriber dials a certain exchange, tells the operator how long he expects to be out and what to say in the event of incoming calls. He is charged according to the length of time he uses this service.

A new, more resilient, laminated plate glass has been perfected having four times the shatter-resistance of present types at normal temperatures and 10 times the strength at zero, according to the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia.

Five Hundred At Closing Service

Grand Procession Thursday Evening Brings Forty-Hour Devotion To A Close

Approximately 500 persons attended the closing services of the 40-hour devotion, Thursday evening, in St. Lucy's church, with the Rev. Fr. Emilio Greco, a missionary from New York City, giving the sermon in Italian, and Rev. Fr. Joseph L. Abbate, assistant pastor of St. Vitus church, giving the sermon in English.

The exposition of the blessed sacrament was held during the day, and following the sermons, a procession was held, with the Holy Rosary Sodality, the Immaculate Conception Sodality and the altar boys participating. Beautiful decorations adorned the church for this special occasion, and during the 40-hour devotion a great attendance was noted.

TEST GUINEA PIGS IN SEARCH FOR LEUKEMIA CURE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA.—Effective combat of leukemia, the disease for which there is no known cure, may eventually result from tests now being conducted with guinea pigs in Philadelphia's Jefferson hospital.

Under close inspection of Dr. Franklin R. Miller, assistant director of hematology at the institution, a large number of the animals are going through death stages of the disease which was injected into them from human victims at the laboratory.

In leukemia, the red corpuscles in the blood stream are devoured by the white, leaving the patient weak and emaciated. The process sometimes takes weeks—sometimes years. X-ray treatment and blood transfusions occasionaly help, but relief is only tempory.

TEST GUINEA PIGS IN SEARCH FOR LEUKEMIA CURE

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA.—Effective combat of leukemia, the disease for which there is no known cure, may eventually result from tests now being conducted with guinea pigs in Philadelphia's Jefferson hospital.

Under close inspection of Dr. Franklin R. Miller, assistant director of hematology at the institution, a large number of the animals are going through death stages of the disease which was injected into them from human victims at the laboratory.

In leukemia, the red corpuscles in the blood stream are devoured by the white, leaving the patient weak and emaciated. The process sometimes takes weeks—sometimes years. X-ray treatment and blood transfusions occasionally help, but relief is only tempory.

Jack Frost Not Menace To Birds At Jordan Farm

But Farm Superintendent Wages Constant War On Raiding Hawks And Foxes

Jack Frost can huff and and puff like the big bad wolf, but he just isn't much of a menace at the Jordan State Game Farm near Harlansburg. Around 13,000 ringneck pheasants have been passing the winter on the farm, as guests of the Pennsylvania sportsmen, and they have stood the weather very well. Even the Big Snow didn't get them down, they being a hardy species with a good many generations of wild ancesters before them.

But hawks, 'coons, foxes and other predotory birds and animals are a constant menace. Game Farm Superintendent Kenneth Brenneman keep sharp vigil for these creatures, and consequently the pheasant mortality rate is low. Hawk traps are used with success, in the fields not protected by wire coverings.

The pheasants are outside in the fields all winter and it is a happy life for them, while it lasts, for they get daily meals fit for a king's pheasants, just the right amount of vitamins, calories and roughage. In bad weather, their food is placed in troughs; otherwise it goes to them on the ground. Corn fodder shelters have been abandoned, for they attract rats and other animals.

Of the 13,000 birds at the farm, 7,100 cocks and 2,600 hens will be released in various sections of the state this spring. The rest will be kept for breeding purposes.

The Jordan Farm covers 325 acres.

Hold Detective As Army Deserter

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 —Agents for the Federal Bureau of Investigation Thursday revealed that they had taken into custody John Selby, a detective at Miami Beach, at the request of the War Department.

The War Department charged, FBI agents said, that Selby escaped from custody July 19, 1919, while being taken to Leavenworth prison to serve a three-year term for desertion from the army. Records showed he deserted three times during the World War, they said. He has served as a detective in Miami Beach since 1933.

Several weeks ago, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the G-men, asserted in announcing a probe of vice conditions in Miami Beach that 12 members of the Beach police force had criminal records. Selby was not included in the list named by Hoover, however.

Selby is now confined in the army barracks at Key West awaiting orders from the War Department, it was said.

Federal Income Tax In Nutshell

BAD DEBTS—YEAR IN WHICH DEDUCTIBLE

To b allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed and, where books are kept, it also must have been charged off within the same year. The necessity for this provision is obvious. If a debt could be deducted without the requirement that it be charged off the taxpayer's books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be open to question. Neither the taxpayer nor the government could be certain that a debt would not be claimed more than once.

If a bad deft were allowed as a deduction without regard to the year when it became worthless, such charges could be accumulated to be deducted in a year when there was a large income.

The burden is upon the taxpayer to show that a debt claimed as a deduction was without value during the taxable year. A statement should be attached to the return showing the propriety of any deduction for bad debts. If in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, deduction for such debt is allowable. Court action as proof that the debt is worthless is not essential.

It is optional with the taxpayer, in a year prior to that in which a debt becomes wholly worthless, to take a deduction for partial loss if partial worthlessness occurs.

The provisions of the Internal Revenue Code with respect to bad-debt deductions are not applicable to a taxpayer, other than a bank as defined by the act, where the debt is evidenced by bonds, debentures, notes or certificates, or other evidences of indebtedness, issued by any corporation (including those issued by a government or political subdivision thereof), wtih interest coupons or in registered form.

Federal Income Tax In Nutshell

BAD DEBTS—YEAR IN WHICH DEDUCTIBLE

To b allowed as a deduction from gross income, a bad debt must have been determined by the taxpayer to be worthless within the taxable year for which it is claimed and, where books are kept, it also must have been charged off within the same year. The necessity for this provision is obvious. If a debt could be deducted without the requirement that it be charged off the taxpayer's books, the certainty of its worthlessness would be open to question. Neither the taxpayer nor the government could be certain that a debt would not be claimed more than once.

If a bad deft were allowed as a deduction without regard to the year when it became worthless, such charges could be accumulated to be deducted in a year when there was a large income.

The burden is upon the taxpayer to show that a debt claimed as a deduction was without value during the taxable year. A statement should be attached to the return showing the propriety of any deduction for bad debts. If in the exercise of sound business judgment a taxpayer concludes, after making every reasonable effort to determine whether there is likelihood of recovery, that the debt is of no value, deduction for such debt is allowable. Court action as proof that the debt is worthless is not essential.

It is optional with the taxpayer, in a year prior to that in which a debt becomes wholly worthless, to take a deduction for partial loss if partial worthlessness occurs.

The provisions of the Internal Revenue Code with respect to bad-debt deductions are not applicable to a taxpayer, other than a bank as defined by the act, where the debt is evidenced by bonds, debentures, notes or certificates, or other evidences of indebtedness, issued by any corporation (including those issued by a government or political subdivision thereof), with interest coupons or in registered form.

Lansing Urged Early U. S. Entry Into World War

Papers Reveal He Urged Wilson To Take Up Arms In 1916

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Robert Lansing, America's World War secretary of state, urged President Wilson to take up arms against Germany more than a year before the U. S. war declaration of April 6, 1917, Lansing's private papers, made public by the State department, revealed today.

Voluminous memoranda in Lansing's file presented a vivid "close-up" of diplomatic negotiations leading up to the break with Germany. They revealed that a great intimacy existed between Lansing and his chief in the White House, although he sought Wilson's approval by every diplomatic move.

Count J. Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States before U. S. entry into the war, was pictured in the Lansing papers as a far stronger peace advocate than most American historians have depicted him. Up to the very moment of the rupture in diplomatic relations between Washington and Berlin, he eagerly sought with Lansing some peace formula.

An impressive parallel between State department problems of 1915-16-17 and these of today was offered by the Lansing papers. Then, as now, the United States, while objecting strongly to Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare, was almost equally vexed over Great Britain's cavalier treatment of American ships.

As early as August, 1915, the Lansing files showed, the secretary was convinced that continued neutrality was futile. Just after the sinking of the Arabic he addressed a memorandum to Wilson saying this government through its peace policy had lost influence with both Germany and the allies and could count little on its earlier hope of playing a prominent part in the final peace negotiations.

"It would appear," he wrote, "that our usefulness in the restoration of peace would certainly not be lessened by a state of war between this country and Germany, and it might even be increased."

Replying, Wilson said Lansing's argument "runs along very much the same lines as my own thought."

Lansing, his papers indicated, was the spearhead of the war partly in the administration. His frequent notes to Wilson between 1915 and 1917 as German submarines continued to sink passenger ships with Americans aboard revealed that he thought continued neutrality was foolish. Finally, in March, 1917, after America adopted the "armed neutrality" policy, Lansing wrote Wilson:

"I firmly believe that war will come within a short time whatever we may do, because the German government seems to be relentless in pursuing its methods of warfare against neutral ships."

Artillery Duel Near Saar River

Intense Aerial Reconnaissance Over Western Front Is Also Reported

(International News Service)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—An artillery duel east and west of the Saar river and intense aerial reconnaissance flights over the Western front with pursuit planes patrolling the war area were reported in military advices to Paris today.

No air combats were reported but five German planes reconnoitered over Eastern France during the night and one reached the Paris area. This plane was unable to fly over the city, however, and was driven off by anti-aircraft guns.

None of these developments were mentioned in French war communique No. 345, which merely stated: "Quiet night."

Welles To Seek New Trade Treaty In Italy

(International News Service)

ROME, Feb. 23.—During his stay in Italy, Sumner Welles is expected to try—with good prospects for success—to smooth out the kinks in negotiations for a new Italo-American trade treaty, it was learned today.

Prospects are propitious because of the breakdown in Anglo-Italian deals, which will give America the opportunity to furnish Italy with large quantities of coal normally supplied by Britain, Germany and Poland.

As a result of the recent drastic reduction of exports to England, Italy is threatened with a shortage of foreign coal supplies. In previous years she has obtained four million tons from Britain and nine million from Germany and Poland.

Only three million tons of German coal reach Italy over railways each year. The remainder now may not be received because Britain threatens to tighten up her blockade against Germany.

Return of Giuseppe Bastianini, Italian ambassador, from London is understood to be connected with the seriousness of the coal situation.

This is expected to create a favorable atmosphere for the Welles mission when the American undersecretary of state arrives, probably Sunday.

Diplomatic exchanges, it is believed, already have paved the way for a compromise formula for phraseology of the treaty, which would circumvent America's reluctance formally to recognize Italy's Ethiopian empire.

It is understood that the treaty will provide for an increase in American purchases of Italian rayon, wine, fruits and silk. Special American customs duties on these products—imposed on the ground that their export was subsidised—recently were reduced.

Italy, in turn, would increase American purchases of coal, iron ingots, finished steel, cotton, copper, other minerals, high test gasoline—which is not obtainable in Rumania—machinery, machine tools and other manufactured products previously obtainable largely from Germany.

Anti-Flu Serum In Human Noses

Important Medical Discovery Is Announced By Former New Castle Man

In "Science," the official journal of American scientists, announcement has been made by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., that a new source of immunity to epidemic influenza has been discovered in human noses at the Rockefeller Institute for medical research. The protective material comes from nasal secretions but has not been identified further. Some people have it, and others do not. The discovery explains, in part why some persons escape influenza epidemics.

Dr. Francis, is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, of 14 Craig street, this city. He was graduated from the New Castle high school, class of '17, received his B. S. degree from Allegheny College in 1921, and his M. D. from Yale in 1925.

October 2, 1938, Dr. Francis was appointed professor of bacteriology at the New York University College of Medicine. He has become internationally known for his work in the development of influenza vaccines. Since Dr. Francis' installation the institution has become the center of influenza research.

YOU don't have to look farther than the nearest parking lot to see how the public has taken to this 1940 Buick.

Although it is not the largest seller, polls of public opinion mark it clearly as the car "first in the hearts of its countrymen."

On general appearance, for instance, Buick gets better than a 19% vote as best looking, to 11% for the Number Two car.

Its thrifty Dynaflash power plant, now balanced after assembly, gives it twice as many Best-of-the-Bunch votes as any other, as does its chassis construction.

With soft and easy coil springs all around it's only natural that some two and a half times as many people pick Buick as best for ride. And a two to one vote on room is understandable in view of the SUPER'S close-to-five-feet front seat.

But the really satisfying thing to us is the way people size up Buick's value.

Half again as many people pick Buick as best buy as pick any other. And three out of five who rate Buick No. 1 say it's the value that gives it the edge.

So it's not surprising when polls show more people wanting Buick than want any other car — and when Buick's midwinter sales hit new peaks.

And shouldn't that, in turn, logically suggest: better get yours now — and be sure of having it?

Pearson Street School Building Continues To Serve Education

The old Reynoldstown school bell has been silenced, the school authorities abandoned the school, but the cause of education is still going forward in the old building on Pearson street. Not as a unit of the public schools, but as a part of the educational system of the Works Progress Administration.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Agnes Howley, director of education for the WPA, the building is being used every week day for classes of various kinds and a brief inspection convinces one that the work is being well done. Part of the building is used for recreational work under the direction of Frank Leonard, but this phase of the activities was discussed in these columns some time ago.

Students All Ages

The educational work has attracted students of all ages. The youngest range from three to five years in the pre-school classes, or kindergarten, if you will. In the morning the youngsters from three to 4 have their classes and in the afternoon youngsters from 4½ to five.

Brightly colored tables and chairs give the room life and color, while scattered around the room are sand boxes, teeter boards, home-made horses that in the minds of the tots are spirited Arabian steeds.

One long rack has a row of wash clothes hung up, with each cloth designated by an animal or a bird. The youngsters learn their designation and the boy or girl whose wash cloth is marked by the picture of a bear or a camel or a bird has the same designation on the clothes rack in the hall.

Miss Eve Nicklin is in direct charge of the pre-school classes, and with her as instructors are Mrs. Catherine Roberts and Mrs. Mary Daly. Thirty-one tiny boys and girls are enrolled in the school, and in the past few months the school has attracted the attention of men and women who are interested in kindergarten education.

Art and Literacy

In one large room of the school is the art class. Along the wall are some unusual pieces of work that have been turned out by the students, most of it in modelling. This should not be confused with sculpturing, as this work is done with plastics which are placed upon drawing boards and then painted. The work as a whole is so well done that it deserves a showing in some public place.

The literacy classes instruct aliens in Americanization. No mere catechism of stock questions in this class; it goes to the roots of American government and in terms that can be understood by the students instructs them what American citizenship means. A student passing the course in this class should have no trouble getting citizenship papers.

The old building is still serving a useful purpose: First, it was the Reynoldstown school, then the Pearson street school, and lastly, the W. N. Aken school. It has had a long career of education and the present work being done there is in keeping with the fine traditions of the building.

Sears' Managers Gather In Chicago

Store Managers From Entire Nation To Meet For Five Day Conference

About 600 Sears retail store managers, mail order managers and other assorted executives will travel an aggregate of three times the distance from the center of the earth to the center of the moon next week as they evacuate their own ballwicks and invade Chicago.

There, one of the biggest conferences ever held by any one firm will take place during five days of seminar sessions in which every phase of the company's business will be discussed and its program for the coming year outlined.

But back home in 484 cities where the company operates retail units, a strang mingling of mirth, festivity and promotional planning is scheduled to occur.

Five hundred and twenty four assistant managers of as many Sears retail stores will move into the managerial sanctums and take over. And in a "while-the-cat's-away-the-mice-will-play" spirit of carnival, 30,000 retail employes will put on a celebration which has been labeled the "King-for-a-Week" promotion. The event will run from Monday, February 26, to Saturday, March 2.

The "King" at the local Sears store is B. H. Moore, who has been assistant to Manager H. V. Girard for the past two years.

"The 'King-for-a-Week' celebration is distinctly an all-employe affair," said Mr. Moore. Practically everyone in the store had a hand in the planning.

Fair Turnstiles Will Click Again

New York Officials Foresee Another Busy Season Approaching

By JANE COCHRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Inexpensive fun for the whole family is the working ideal of the New York World's Fair this year. The awe-inspiring grandeur that thrilled artists but failed to make the turnstiles click has been forgotten in the plans for the 1940 exhibition and the carnival spirit and how to achieve it have received the first consideration, fair officials emphasized today.

Satisfied that the exhibit area tops any presented previously, fair officials have concentrated on the amusement area. Enough free entertainment to make a visit to the area attractive will be offered and at least three elaborate spectacles will be staged. These will include the "American Jubilee," a spectacular musical revue with a cast of 300 featuring prominent stars.

Name bands will continue to provide free dancing and displays of fireworks will brighten up the night skies.

The ladies will have a field day at the 1940 exhibition if current plans materialize. Fashions and home decorations have important places in pre-fair plans.

Fashions, staged under the direction of Mary Lewis, will be shown at lunch and tea. The latest creations of noted designers as well as the costumes from outstanding Hollywood pictures will be highlighted in a building devoted entirely to fashions.

The best home furnishing and decorative arts produced in America will be assembled in one building to delight the housewife. Specially designed rooms and coordinated furnishings that can be adapted to American homes are to be featured.

Report Henry Ford Eyes Old Warship

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 23—Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, is interested in acquiring the U. S. S. Wolverine to add to his collection of Americana.

W. L. Morrison, member of the Erie County Historical Society, announced today that he had received a letter from Ford, advising him that a representative of the museum would come to Erie to examine the ship with the possible view of purchasing it.

The Wolverine, one of the first ironclad warships built, was decommissioned shortly after the World War.

THE COD LIVER OIL SHORTAGE

A couple of weeks ago I referred here to the shortage of cod liver oil here in North America. That is threatened because our European sources of supply are being cut off by war, and the alarming consequences it can have. Since that article appeared I have been besieged with leters from parents wanting to know what substitutes can be used if the present supply of cod liver oil becomes exhausted.

Well, I still hope that we may come through the shortage without having to resort to substitution. If we come through to spring, then we may be able to build up sufficient supply during summer to carry us through next winter again. Or better still, the war may be over before next winter.

There are various products which have some value as substitutes for cod liver oil. None is as satisfactory as the original, natural oil from the cod. Nevertheless, they are beneficial, and when the oil isn't available, we should certainly use them.

The main reason we use cod liver oil, of course, is to provide an adequate supply of Vitamins A and D. There are substitues which can be made to supply these just as well as cod liver oil. But they are not as balanced in vitamin content. And in addition to its vitamins, cod liver oil contains small amounts of various other important substances that the body needs. The substitutes lack all or some of these.

For instance, if we do not get about a five hundredth part of a milligram of iodine every day in our food we may develop a goitre—the small amount of iodine in an average dose of cod liver oil will prevent it. In districts where the food doesn't contain enough iodine, goitre is fairly common. But even in these so-called "goitre areas," we are unlikely to contract it if we take a teaspoonful of cod liver oil a day.

In most of the United States and Canada, as I have pointed out many times before, a child does not receive enough of the sun's ultra-violet rays in fall, winter and early spring. Ultra-violet rays have practically no heating power, but the energy they radiate makes it possible for the cells of the body to take up the minerals from the food more easily and use them for building up strength and good health. A shortage of ultra-violet rays can be as bad for a child as a shortage of a necessary food element. Cod liver oil makes up for ultra-violet rays that children do not get in the cold months.

The most common substitutes for cod liver oil are the concentrates of the oil itself. The concentration causes the extra substances to be lost, but the vitamins are retained. Often the concentrate is a liquid of which a drop or two is equal to a teaspoon of the oil itself in the amount of vitamin content; sometimes it comes in the form of tablets or capsules. A doctor should be consulted about the proper dosage for your child.

Of course, if the shortage of oil becomes acute, these concentrates will run out, too, since there won't be oil to manufacture them. However, we may be able to get concentrates from Europe in sufficient considerable quantities, since they should be easier to ship than the oil itself.

Of the other fish oils that can be used as substitutes for cod liver oil, most have too much vitamin A and not enough vitamin D. This is the handicap of haliver oil, one of the most common substitutes. However, in processing the oil the manufacturers can add the extra vitamin D and give a better balance to the product.

The biggest trouble about the substitutes is that parents are just getting to be cod liver oil-conscious, and will have to be educated all over again if substitutes must be used to give their children the much-needed "bottled sunshine" in winter.

Drunken Drivers Greatest Safety Menace On Highway

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23 — The drunken driver is still the greatest safety menace on Pennsylvania's highways, Motor Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams contended Thursday.

Col. Adams declared that until something is done about drunken driving and pedestrian deaths Pennsylvania motorists could not be given "a pat on the back."

"What is drunkenness in relation to driving?" he asked. "The minute a man has one drink, he becomes reckless; when he has had two he becomes more reckless.

"A man is a menace on the road when he has had enough drinks to make him reckless, not only when he is drunk enough to stagger."

Drunken driving problems can best be solved in the courts, Adams asserted. He added that the pedestrian death problem was causing considerable concern, pointing out that almost 50 per cent of traffic fatalities in 1939 were pedestrians.

Lansing Urged Early U. S. Entry Into World War

Papers Reveal He Urged Wilson To Take Up Arms In 1916

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Robert Lansing, America's World War secretary of state, urged President Wilson to take up arms against Germany more than a year before the U. S. war declaration of April 6, 1917, Lansing's private papers, made public by the State department, revealed today.

Voluminous memoranda in Lansing's file presented a vivid "close-up" of diplomatic negotiations leading up to the break with Germany. They revealed that a great intimacy existed between Lansing and his chief in the White House, although he sought Wilson's approval by every diplomatic move.

Count J. Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States before U. S. entry into the war, was pictured in the Lansing papers as a far stronger peace advocate than most American historians have depicted him. Up to the very moment of the rupture in diplomatic relations between Washington and Berlin, he eagerly sought with Lansing some peace formula.

An impressive parallel between State department problems of 1915-16-17 and these of today was offered by the Lansing papers. Then, as now, the United States, while objecting strongly to Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare, was almost equally vexed over Great Britain's cavalier treatment of American ships.

As early as August, 1915, the Lansing files showed, the secretary was convinced that continued neutrality was futile. Just after the sinking of the Arabic he addressed a memorandum to Wilson saying this government through its peace policy had lost influence with both Germany and the allies and could count little on its earlier hope of playing a prominent part in the final peace negotiations.

"It would appear," he wrote, "that our usefulness in the restoration of peace would certainly not be lessened by a state of war between this country and Germany, and it might even be increased."

Replying, Wilson said Lansing's argument "runs along very much the same lines as my own thought."

Lansing, his papers indicated, was the spearhead of the war partly in the administration. His frequent notes to Wilson between 1915 and 1917 as German submarines continued to sink passenger ships with Americans aboard revealed that he thought continued neutrality was foolish. Finally, in March, 1917, after America adopted the "armed neutrality" policy, Lansing wrote Wilson:

"I firmly believe that war will come within a short time whatever we may do, because the German government seems to be relentless in pursuing its methods of warfare against neutral ships."

Artillery Duel Near Saar River

Intense Aerial Reconnaissance Over Western Front Is Also Reported

(International News Service)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—An artillery duel east and west of the Saar river and intense aerial reconnaissance flights over the Western front with pursuit planes patrolling the war area were reported in military advices to Paris today.

No air combats were reported but five German planes reconnoitered over Eastern France during the night and one reached the Paris area. This plane was unable to fly over the city, however, and was driven off by anti-aircraft guns.

None of these developments were mentioned in French war communique No. 345, which merely stated: "Quiet night."

Welles To Seek New Trade Treaty In Italy

(International News Service)

ROME, Feb. 23.—During his stay in Italy, Sumner Welles is expected to try—with good prospects for success—to smooth out the kinks in negotiations for a new Italo-American trade treaty, it was learned today.

Prospects are propitious because of the breakdown in Anglo-Italian deals, which will give America the opportunity to furnish Italy with large quantities of coal normally supplied by Britain, Germany and Poland.

As a result of the recent drastic reduction of exports to England, Italy is threatened with a shortage of foreign coal supplies. In previous years she has obtained four million tons from Britain and nine million from Germany and Poland.

Only three million tons of German coal reach Italy over railways each year. The remainder now may not be received because Britain threatens to tighten up her blockade against Germany.

Return of Giuseppe Bastianini, Italian ambassador, from London is understood to be connected with the seriousness of the coal situation.

This is expected to create a favorable atmosphere for the Welles mission when the American undersecretary of state arrives, probably Sunday.

Diplomatic exchanges, it is believed, already have paved the way for a compromise formula for phraseology of the treaty, which would circumvent America's reluctance formally to recognize Italy's Ethiopian empire.

It is understood that the treaty will provide for an increase in American purchases of Italian rayon, wine, fruits and, silk. Special American customs duties on these products—imposed on the ground that their export was subsidized—recently were reduced.

Italy, in turn, would increase American purchases of coal, iron ingots, finished steel, cotton, copper, other minerals, high test gasoline—which is not obtainable in Rumania—machinery, machine tools and other manufactured products previously obtainable largely from Germany.

Anti-Flu Serum In Human Noses

Important Medical Discovery Is Announced By Former New Castle Man

In "Science," the official journal of American scientists, announcement has been made by Dr. Thomas Francis, Jr., that a new source of immunity to epidemic influenza has been discovered in human noses at the Rockefeller Institute for medical research. The protective material comes from nasal secretions but has not been identified further. Some people have it, and others do not. The discovery explains, in part why some persons escape influenza epidemics.

Dr. Francis, is a son of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, of 14 Craig street, this city. He was graduated from the New Castle high school, class of '17, received his B. S. degree from Allegheny College in 1921, and his M. D. from Yale in 1925.

October 2, 1938, Dr. Francis was appointed professor of bacteriology at the New York University College of Medicine. He has become internationally known for his work in the development of influenza vaccines. Since Dr. Francis' installation the institution has become the center of influenza research.

You don't have to look farther than the nearest parking lot to see how the public has taken to this 1940 Buick.

Although it is not the largest seller, polls of public opinion mark it clearly as the car "first in the hearts of its countrymen."

On general appearance, for instance, Buick gets better than a 19% vote as best looking, to 11% for the Number Two car.

Its thrifty Dynaflash power plant, now balanced after assembly, gives it twice as many Best-of-the-Bunch votes as any other, as does its chassis construction.

With soft and easy coil springs all around it's only natural that some two and a half times as many people pick Buick as best for ride. And a two to one vote on room is understandable in view of the SUPER'S close-to-five-feet front seat.

But the really satisfying thing to us is the way people size up Buick's value.

Half again as many people pick Buick as best buy as pick any other. And three out of five who rate Buick No. 1 say it's the value that gives it the edge.

So it's not surprising when polls show more people wanting Buick than want any other car — and when Buick's midwinter sales hit new peaks.

And shouldn't that, in turn, logically suggest: better get yours now — and be sure of having it?

The model illustrated is the Buick SUPER model 51 four-door touring sedan $1109 delivered at Flint, Mich. White sidewall tires additional.

Senate Election Probers Will Visit Scene Of Complaints

Plans For 1940 Probes Are Given

Senator Gillette, Chairman, Tells Of Program Agreed Upon

THOROUGH JOB IS PROMISED FOR YEAR

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The special senate committee named to investigate 1940 election irregularities will divide into "flying squadrons" and travel to the "seat of the trouble" whenever necessary, Senator Gillette (D) Iowa, chairman, revealed today.

This novel procedure was informally agreed on by committee members as Senator Hatch (D) New Mexico said he will lay before the committee complaints of violations of his "clean politics" act.

"It is my opinion," Gillette said, "that if alleged violations of the elections laws are deemed by the committee of sufficient importance to investigate personally in the territory from which they come, the probable result will be to send a member or members to take charge.

"It would be impossible for the whole committee to go, and on the other hand violations of sufficient moment to warrant personal investigation in the territory in which they occur ought not be left solely in the hands of an investigator."

To Do Thorough Job

Asserting that the committee is determined "to do a thorough job," Senator Miller (D) Arkansas, a member, said "if it requires travelling we'll do it."

"We're going to do a non-partisan job, and while we are not planning to go out unless it is necessary, if reasonable complaints come in that need extraordinary investigation, I think members will go out and take care of them."

Hatch disclosed that he has received several complaints of violation of his act limiting political activities of federal employes. He has turned these over to various government departments for investigation, he said.

In the future all such complaints will be turned over to the Gillette committee, which is empowered to investigate them as well as sources of campaign funds, and expenditures of presidential, vice-presidential, and senatorial candidates.

Youths Held On Robbery Charges

One Of Young Men Held For Gem Theft Is Son Of Former Judge

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Arrested in a houseboat at the foot of the Sixth street bridge on the Allegheny river, two youths—one the son of a former Cambria county Common Pleas Court judge—were being held by Pittsburgh police today, charged with a $10,000 jewel robbery.

A third youngster, Robert Porter, 17, of Mt. Lebanon, also was being grilled by city and county detectives, but District Attorney Andrew T. Park indicated his companions had exonerated him of any connection with the holdup.

Richard Evans, 17-year-old high school junior and son of John E. Evans, Sr., Pittsburgh attorney who was on the Cambria county Common Pleas Court bench several years ago, and Jack Kernan, 19, of Mt. Lebanon, admitted robbing the home of Albert Geyer, printing company executive, on February 2, the district attorney said.

At the time, $10,000 worth of jewelry and $85 in cash were taken by two youthful gunmen who forced a young maid to open a cabinet at pistol point and then locked her in a bedroom before they fled with their loot. The district attorney said formal informations containing this charge would be filed later, possibly today.

Nazis Try Color In Air Raid Lights

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Royal Air Force pilots have discovered in reconnaissance flights that the Germans are experimenting with colored searchlights in an attempt to increase the efficiency of anti-aircraft defenses around Berlin and other cities, the air ministry announced.

British pilots have flown over Berlin "more than once" since the war began, the ministry said.

"There has been no apparent result," the ministry commented on the experiments, "although the pilots report the searchlights are 'very pretty'."

The beam from an ordinary searchlight, the ministry explained, retracts at a sharp angle when it strikes clouds.

Apparently the Germans are experimenting with such colors as violet, blue and orange in an endeavor to develop a light that will pierce the clouds.

THE COD LIVER OIL SHORTAGE

A couple of weeks ago I referred here to the shortage of cod liver oil here in North America. That is threatened because our European sources of supply are being cut off by war, and the alarming consequences it can have. Since that article appeared I have been besieged with leters from parents wanting to know what substitutes can be used if the present supply of cod liver oil becomes exhausted.

Well, I still hope that we may come through the shortage without having to resort to substitution. If we come through to spring, then we may be able to build up sufficient supply during summer to carry us through next winter again. Or better still, the war may be over before next winter.

There are various products which have some value as substitutes for cod liver oil. None is as satisfactory as the original, natural oil from the cod. Nevertheless, they are beneficial, and when the oil isn't available, we should certainly use them.

The main reason we use cod liver oil, of course, is to provide an adequate supply of Vitamins A and D. There are substitues which can be made to supply these just as well as cod liver oil. But they are not as balanced in vitamin content. And in addition to its vitamins, cod liver oil contains small amounts of various other important substances that the body needs. The substitutes lack all or some of these.

For instance, if we do not get about a five hundredth part of a milligram of iodine every day in our food we may develop a goitre—the small amount of iodine in an average dose of cod liver oil will prevent it. In districts where the food doesn't contain enough iodine, goitre is fairly common. But even in these so-called "goitre areas," we are unlikely to contract it if we take a teaspoonful of cod liver oil a day.

In most of the United States and Canada, as I have pointed out many times before, a child does not receive enough of the sun's ultra-violet rays in fall, winter and early spring. Ultra-violet rays have practically no heating power, but the energy they radiate makes it possible for the cells of the body to take up the minerals from the food more easily and use them for building up strength and good health. A shortage of ultra-violet rays can be, as bad for a child as a shortage of a necessary food element. Cod liver oil makes up for ultra-violet rays that children do not get in the cold months.

The most common substitutes for cod liver oil are the concentrates of the oil itself. The concentration causes the extra substances to be lost, but the vitamins are retained. Often the concentrate is a liquid of which a drop or two is equal to a teaspoon of the oil itself in the amount of vitamin content; sometimes it comes in the form of tablets or capsules. A doctor should be consulted about the proper dosage for your child.

Of course, if the shortage of oil becomes acute, these concentrates will run out, too, since there won't be oil to manufacture them. However, we may be able to get concentrates from Europe in sufficient considerable quantities, since they should be easier to ship than the oil itself.

Of the other fish oils that can be used as substitutes for cod liver oil, most have too much vitamin A and not enough vitamin D. This is the handicap of haliver oil, one of the most common substitutes. However, in processing the oil the manufacturers can add the extra vitamin D and give a better balance to the product.

The biggest trouble about the substitutes is that parents are just getting to be cod liver oil-conscious, and will have to be educated all over again if substitutes must be used to give their children the much-needed "bottled sunshine" in winter.

Drunken Drivers Greatest Safety Menace On Highway

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23 — The drunken driver is still the greatest safety menace on Pennsylvania's highways, Motor Police Commissioner Lynn G. Adams contended Thursday.

Col. Adams declared that until something is done about drunken driving and pedestrian deaths Pennsylvania motorists could not be given "a pat on the back."

"What is drunkenness in relation to driving?" he asked. "The minute a man has one drink, he becomes reckless; when he has had two he becomes more reckless.

"A man is a menace on the road when he has had enough drinks to make him reckless, not only when he is drunk enough to stagger."

Drunken driving problems can best be solved in the courts, Adams asserted. He added that the pedestrian death problem was causing considerable concern, pointing out that almost 50 per cent of traffic fatalities in 1939 were pedestrians.

CURFEW RINGS

Senator Bridges Tells What He Finds People Of U. S. Thinking About

Editor's note—United States Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who is frequently mentioned as a possibility for the Republican nomination for president, is on a speaking trip through the west. He has written the following story of what he has found the people are thinking about for clients of International News Service.

By U. S. SENATOR STYLES BRIDGES

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 23.—In spite of newspaper headlines, America's interest, insofar as reflected in this section of the country has not yet been focused on the wars in Europe. This is the most revealing phase of a trip over eight states which I am just concluding.

In talks with Republican leaders, with bankers, with business men, representatives of labor and agriculture, I am yet to have one of them bring up the European situation except insofar as it might bear on President Roosevelt's running for a third term. Whether he will run or is running at this time is usually about the first question I am asked. And frankly, he Republican leaders and bankers and business men live in a constant state of expectancy about what spetacular move concerning Europe Mr. Roosevelt is likely to make.

Fear Fantastic Move

I was in Albuquerque, N. M., the day he left Washington on a mysterious mission which turned out to be an inspection of the canal zone defenses. Although only a couple of paragraphs had been carried in the local papers everyone with whom I talked sought information on what he had up his sleeve. It was suggested to me then and for two or three days thereafter that he was about to carry out the final episode of the fantastic movie "Gabriel Over the White House" which appeared in the early days of the New Deal.

In this picture a dynamic president, guided by the angel Gabriel, had put America back on its feet and was now meeting with world statesmen on a battleship at sea to get them to disarm. When they quibbled he stepped to a microphone and carried his plea to the world. It so frightened the world statesmen that they readily agreed to disarm.

Mr. Roosevelt is apparently in the daily consciousness of every man, woman and child, favorably or unfavorably—but he is there.

His former brain truster, Raymond Moley, wrote in a series of magazine articles that Mr. Roosevelt said on the approach of the 1936 elections:

"I am the issue," or words to that effect.

That seems to be the issue today.

Unpledged Delegates

There is a hunger everywhere for the news about Washington. Republican presidential personalities, I am convinced, are of secondary consideration in the general situation of being for or against Mr. Roosevelt.

Because of this, the plans of the leaders in every state in which I have visited on this trip—Indiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah—are to send unpledged delegations to the national convention. Undoubtedly the delegates from these states will have their strong preferences by the latter part of June when the Republican national convention takes place.

But, it is my conviction at this time that the leaders of all these states want to encourage every Republican presidential mentionable, to show him every hospitality at their command. They appreciate the leaders coming into their states. It helps them to rebuild their organizations which they are trying so valiantly to do. They are all up against the tremendous organization which has been built up under the New Deal and when a leader of their party comes into their state it gives stimulation to their efforts, gives impetus to the Republican revival which they are working at so hard.

A Republican editor has told me that what the Republicans need is not oratory but organization. They certainly do need organization and the visit of prominent speakers, particularly those of us who are the so-called candidates, helps them tremendously in their work of organization.

Increased Activity On Western Front

German High Command Also Admits To German Planes Fail To Return

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The German high command reported increased activity along the Western front today, admitted that two German planes failed to return from raids along the east coast of Britain and claimed that one British aircraft was shot down over the Helgoland Bight.

"There was livelier activity among advanced posts between the Moselle river and the Palatinate forest," the official German war communique stated.

"Several enemy prisoners were taken by two successful scouting parties near Apacs and the Heydt forest west of Herzig.

"The air force continued large-scale reconnoitering flights over the North Sea, the British Isles and Eastern France. Two German planes failed to return from England.

"One of three Vickers-Wellington (British) aircraft was shot down by a German Messerschmidt pursuit plane over the German (Helgoland) Bight."

Better Lighting System Desired For Brookville

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Feb. 23.—Brookville borough council soon will be requested to wrestle with a proposal to give the county seat a modern street lighting system comparable with any town of like size in western Pennsylvania.

Officials of the Solar Electric company are known to have prepared a new street lighting contract which incorporates the installation of 11 new street light standards on Main street to replace the present five standards parked dangerously in the center of the street at the corner of Main and Franklin, the alley at Columbia theater, Pickering, the alley at the Bank and Trust, Barnett and Valley.

The new project would increase illumination approximately 4,000 candlepower from the standards, which would be set at the curb and would extend out over the street at a height of 22 feet.

Rescue Gassed Pair From Auto

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 23.—Resuscitated after being discovered unconscious in an automobile near Grindstone, Miss Mary Ferrarini, 21, of that town, and Frank Grimplin, 23, of near Perryopolis, are fighting for life in the Brownsville General hospital.

They owe their lives to the rescue squad of the H. C. Frick Coke company of Grindstone, who worked with an inhalator for more than an hour after the pair was reported "as blue as indigo".

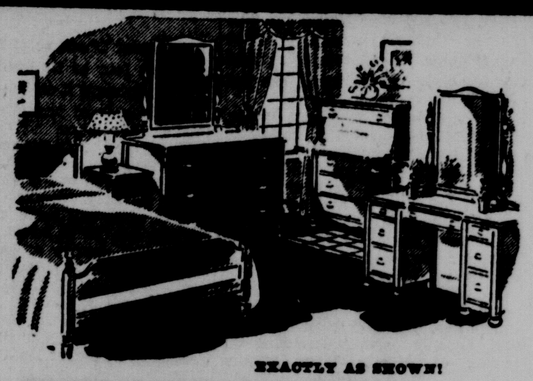

Investigating officers say that the engine of the machine was found running and the inside was filled with fumes.

The car was seen to park at the roadside about midnight. Six hours later the two were found in the car.

School Directors Stand Convicted

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Three North Braddock school directors today were convicted, in a sealed verdict opened in criminal court, of misbehavior in office in failing to advertise for bids in purchasing school supplies.

They were Fred Wiehagan, Philip C. Zang and John McMuldren. In addition, Zang was convicted on a bribery count. Two other counts against him, one alleging bribery and the other attempted bribery, were nullified by the jury.

The verdict carries automatic dismissal from office and the court may, at its discretion, impose a one-year-prison term. The bribery charge against Zang resulted from his alleged request for a "kickback" on the purchase of athletic equipment and a truck for use in the schools.

The verdict was reached yesterday, but sealed because of Washington's birthday, a legal holiday.

Senate Election Probers Will Visit Scene Of Complaints

Plans For 1940 Probes Are Given

Senator Gillette, Chairman, Tells Of Program Agreed Upon

THOROUGH JOB IS PROMISED FOR YEAR

By ROBERT A. McGILL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The special senate committee named to investigate 1940 election irregularities will divide into "flying squadrons" and travel to the "seat of the trouble" whenever necessary, Senator Gillette (D) Iowa, chairman, revealed today.

This novel procedure was informally agreed on by committee members as Senator Hatch (D) New Mexico said he will lay before the committee complaints of violations of his "clean politics" act.

"It is my opinion," Gillette said, "that if alleged violations of the elections laws are deemed by the committee of sufficient importance to investigate personally in the territory from which they come, the probable result will be to send a member or members to take charge.

"It would be impossible for the whole committee to go, and on the other hand violations of sufficient moment to warrant personal investigation in the territory in which they occur ought not be left solely in the hands of an investigator."

To Do Thorough Job

Asserting that the committee is determined "to do a thorough job," Senator Miller (D) Arkansas, a member, said "if it requires travelling we'll do it."

"We're going to do a non-partisan job, and while we are not planning to go out unless it is necessary, if reasonable complaints come in that need extraordinary investigation, I think members will go out and take care of them."

Hatch disclosed that he has received several complaints of violation of his act limiting political activities of federal employes. He has turned these over to various government departments for investigation, he said.

In the future all such complaints will be turned over to the Gillette committee, which is empowered to investigate them as well as sources of campaign funds, and expenditures of presidential, vice-presidential, and senatorial candidates.

Youths Held On Robbery Charges

One Of Young Men Held For Gem Theft Is Son Of Former Judge

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Arrested in a houseboat at the foot of the Sixth street bridge on the Allegheny river, two youths—one the son of a former Cambria county Common Pleas Court judge—were being held by Pittsburgh police today, charged with a $10,000 jewel robbery.

A third youngster, Robert Porter, 17, of Mt. Lebanon, also was being grilled by city and county detectives, but District Attorney Andrew T. Park indicated his companions had exonerated him of any connection with the holdup.

Richard Evans, 17-year-old high school junior and son of John E. Evans, Sr., Pittsburgh attorney who was on the Cambria county Common Pleas Court bench several years ago, and Jack Kernan, 19, of Mt. Lebanon, admitted robbing the home of Albert Geyer, printing company executive, on February 2, the district attorney said.

At the time, $10,000 worth of jewelry and $85 in cash were taken by two youthful gunmen who forced a young maid to open a cabinet at pistol point and then locked her in a bedroom before they fled with their loot. The district attorney said formal informations containing this charge would be filed later, possibly today.

Nazis Try Color In Air Raid Lights

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Royal Air Force pilots have discovered in reconnaissance flights that the Germans are experimenting with colored searchlights in an attempt to increase the efficiency of anti-aircraft defenses around Berlin and other cities, the air ministry announced.

British pilots have flown over Berlin "more than once" since the war began, the ministry said.

"There has been no apparent result," the ministry commented on the experiments, "although the pilots report the searchlights are 'very pretty'."

The beam from an ordinary searchlight, the ministry explained, retracts at a sharp angle when it strikes clouds.

Apparently the Germans are experimenting with such colors as violet, blue and orange in an endeavor to develop a light that will pierce the clouds.

Stewards In The Kingdom

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Parable of the talents

"Well done, good and faithful servant."—Matt. 25:21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 25 is Matthew 24, 25, the Golden Text being Matthew 25:21, "Well done, good and faithful servant.")

Stewards in the kingdom is the subject of today's sesson. How, in other words, should we live and act during our lives so that we can be sure we are worthy to be classed among the righteous when the Lord comes again in glory.

You will remember that at the close of the last lesson Jesus wept over Jerusalem, prophesying its ruin and mourning that its people would not accept His message. In the beginning of today's lesson Jesus and His disciples went out of the temple, and in spite of all Jesus had told them of things to come, they wanted to show Him the various buildings and have Him admire them. Jesus reproved them, saying, "See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down."

The disciples were curious about these sayings, and when He sat upon the Mount of Olives, from which He had a fine view of Jerusalem, they came to Him and asked Him privately, "Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?"

Jesus then told them of many things that would happen—famines, pestilences, wars. Many false prophets would appear, and many would believe these, but His true followers would not be deceived, but would go on steadfastly doing their duty and waiting until He the Lord of All, should appear. We have not room here to repeat His prophecies and tell of all Jesus told these humble followers of His.

Tells Parables

To Jesus the disciples must have seemed like children, and He made His meaning clear to them by way of parables, which symbolized what He expected of them when He should have gone.

We must always be ready for the coming. He tells us in the parable of the ten virgins who were to go to the wedding feast. We are told that they must have been girl friends of the bride and were bidden to be present at the wedding feast. None knew when the bridegroom would come, so the virgins provided themselves with lamps. Five of the virgins—those who were wise—took oil in vessels for their lamps; but the foolish ones took no oil. All slept until the cry was made, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him!" Then the virgins trimmed their lamps and the wise ones filled theirs with oil and lighted them; but the foolish tried to borrow oil from the others, but were told that they had only enough for themselves. Then the virgins hastened to the merchants to get oil, but when they returned the bridegroom had come, and the gates were locked against them. "Lord, open to us," they cried, but He said. "Verily, I say unto you, I know ye not." Watch, therefore, Jesus said. for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh.

Parable of Talents

The parable of the ten talents is then told. Talents were worth a great deal of money. This parable likened the kingdom of heaven to a man who traveled to a far country. Calling his servants he gave five talents to the first, two to the second and one to the third, according to his ability. Then he went away. When he came back after a long time, the man who had been given five talents had five more, ten in all, for him; and likewise the man who had two talents had doubled them. But the man who had only had one talent, had buried it in the garden and now brought it probably corroded and thus worth less. To the first two the master said, "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of the lord." But as to him who had had but one talent and who had made nothing, he was cast into outer darkness.

In the day of judgment, "When the Son of Man shall come in His glory," He shall say to those on His right hand, "I was a-hungered, and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me in; naked, and ye clothed Me; I was sick and ye visited Me; I was in prison, and ye came unto Me." And they shall say, "Lord, when saw we Thee a-hungered, and fed Thee? or thirsty, and gave Thee drink? When saw we Thee a stranger, and took Thee in? or naked, and clothed Thee? Or when saw we Thee sick, or in prison, and came unto Thee?"

And the King shall answer and say unto them, "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

We are the "Stewards in the kingdom". So should we live that we will have no fear of whatever may befall us, even the Day of Judgment.

Nearly 6000 Farmers In State Secure Wheat Insurance

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23 — Pennsylvania farmers are participating in increasing numbers in the wheat insurance program, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reports.

A total of 5910 Keystone State farmers have entered the 1940 program. They have insured 72,642 acres of wheat and paid premiums of 39,881 bushels of wheat. Estimated production of the 72,642 insured acres is placed at 1,105,173 bushels.

In Ohio the program is proving especially popular. In that state 28,347 farmers have insured 287,853 acres with an estimated production of 4,000,805 bushels.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

A mother reached in the medicine cabinet for a cough medicine.

In her haste and excitement she picked up the wrong bottle.

She gave her three children crude carbolic acid by mistake.

Two died soon afterwards, the third was disfigured for life.

A costly error and a lifetime of pitiful remorse.

Why poisons in the household medicine cabinet anyway?

They have no business there with other bottles.

The medicine cabinet is a catch-all for sundry odds and ends.

Rusty razor blades, dirty medicine dropper, unhygienic brushes.

Sticky teaspoon, empty toothpaste tubes, spilled talcum.

Mixed in with medicine bottles is a bottle of poison.

Senator Bridges Tells What He Finds People Of U. S. Thinking About

Editor's note—United States Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who is frequently mentioned as a possibility for the Republican nomination for president, is on a speaking trip through the west. He has written the following story of what he has found the people are thinking about for clients of International News Service.

By U. S. SENATOR STYLES BRIDGES

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 23.—In spite of newspaper headlines, America's interest, insofar as reflected in this section of the country has not yet been focused on the wars in Europe. This is the most revealing phase of a trip over eight states which I am just concluding.

In talks with Republican leaders, with bankers, with business men, representatives of labor and agriculture, I am yet to have one of them bring up the European situation except insofar as it might bear on President Roosevelt's running for a third term. Whether he will run or is running at this time is usually about the first question I am asked. And frankly, he Republican leaders and bankers and business men live in a constant state of expectancy about what spetacular move concerning Europe Mr. Roosevelt is likely to make.

Fear Fantastic Move

I was in Albuquerque, N. M., the day he left Washington on a mysterious mission which turned out to be an inspection of the canal zone defenses. Although only a couple of paragraphs had been carried in the local papers everyone with whom I talked sought information on what he had up his sleeve. It was suggested to me then and for two or three days thereafter that he was about to carry out the final episode of the fantastic movie "Gabriel Over the White House" which appeared in the early days of the New Deal.

In this picture a dynamic president, guided by the angel Gabriel, had put America back on its feet and was now meeting with world statesmen on a battleship at sea to get them to disarm. When they quibbled he stepped to a microphone and carried his plea to the world. It so frightened the world statesmen that they readily agreed to disarm.

Mr. Roosevelt is apparently in the daily consciousness of every man, woman and child, favorably or unfavorably—but he is there.

His former brain truster, Raymond Moley, wrote in a series of magazine articles that Mr. Roosevelt said on the approach of the 1936 elections:

"I am the issue," or words to that effect.

That seems to be the issue today.

Unpledged Delegates

There is a hunger everywhere for the news about Washington. Republican presidential personalities, I am convinced, are of secondary consideration in the general situation of being for or against Mr. Roosevelt.

Because of this, the plans of the leaders in every state in which I have visited on this trip—Indiana, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming and Utah—are to send unpledged delegations to the national convention. Undoubtedly the delegates from these states will have their strong preferences by the latter part of June when the Republican national convention takes place.

But, it is my conviction at this time that the leaders of all these states want to encourage every Republican presidential mentionable, to show him every hospitality at their command. They appreciate the leaders coming into their states. It helps them to rebuild their organizations which they are trying so valiantly to do. They are all up against the tremendous organization which has been built up under the New Deal and when a leader of their party comes into their state it gives stimulation to their efforts, gives impetus to the Republican revival which they are working at so hard.

A Republican editor has told me that what the Republicans need is not oratory but organization. They certainly do need organization and the visit of prominent speakers, particularly those of us who are the so-called candidates, helps them tremendously in their work of organization.

German High Command Also Admits To German Planes Fail To Return

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—The German high command reported increased activity along the Western front today, admitted that two German planes failed to return from raids along the east coast of Britain and claimed that one British aircraft was shot down over the Helgoland Bight.

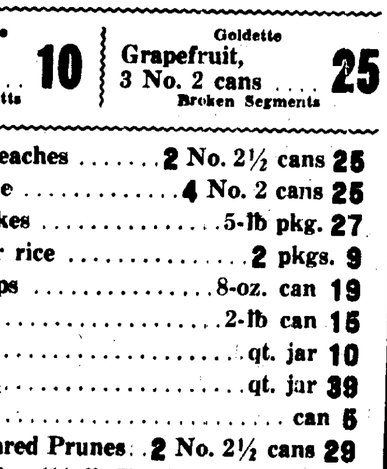

"There was livelier activity among advanced posts between the Moselle river and the Palatinate forest," the official German war communique stated.

"Several enemy prisoners were taken by two successful scouting parties near Apach and the Heydt forest west of Herzig.

"The air force continued large-scale reconnoitering flights over the North Sea, the British Isles and Eastern France. Two German planes failed to return from England.

"One of three Vickers-Wellington (British) aircraft was shot down by a German Messerschmidt pursuit plane over the German (Helgoland) Bight."

Better Lighting System Desired For Brookville

BROOKVILLE, Pa., Feb. 23.—Brookville borough council soon will be requested to wrestle with a proposal to give the county seat a modern street lighting system comparable with any town of like size in western Pennsylvania.

Officials of the Solar Electric company are known to have prepared a new street lighting contract which incorporates the installation of 11 new street light standards on Main street to replace the present five standards parked dangerously in the center of the street at the corner of Main and Franklin, the alley at Columbia theater, Pickering, the alley at the Bank and Trust, Barnett and Valley.

The new project would increase illumination approximately 4,000 candlepower from the standards, which would be set at the curb and would extend out over the street at a height of 22 feet.

Rescue Gassed Pair From Auto

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 23.—Resuscitated after being discovered unconscious in an automobile near Grindstone, Miss Mary Ferrarini, 21, of that town, and Frank Grimplin, 23, of near Perryopolis, are fighting for life in the Brownsville General hospital.

They owe their lives to the rescue squad of the H. C. Frick Coke company of Grindstone, who worked with an inhalator for more than an hour after the pair was reported "as blue as indigo".

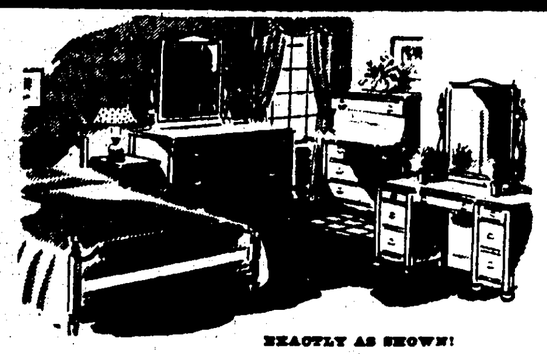

Investigating officers say that the engine of the machine was found running and the inside was filled with fumes.

The car was seen to park at the roadside about midnight. Six hours later the two were found in the car.

School Directors Stand Convicted

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Three North Braddock school directors today were convicted, in a sealed verdict opened in criminal court, of misbehavior in office in failing to advertise for bids in purchasing school supplies.

They were Fred Wiehagan, Philip C. Zang and John McMuldren. In addition, Zang was convicted on a bribery count. Two other counts against him, one alleging bribery and the other attempted bribery, were nullified by the jury.

The verdict carries automatic dismissal from office and the court may, at its discretion, impose a one-year-prison term. The bribery charge against Zang resulted from his alleged request for a "kickback" on the purchase of athletic equipment and a truck for use in the schools.

The verdict was reached yesterday, but sealed because of Washington's birthday, a legal holiday.

PENNSY SHOWS INCOME GAIN

Pennsy In 1939 Shows Net Income Of $32,032,525 Report Reveals

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Riding the crest of a sharp upturn of industrial activity in the last four months of 1939, the Pennsylvania Railroad last year piled up a net income of $32,032,525—almost tripling the $11,046,100 income for 1938, the carrier reported today.

In his 83rd annual report to stockholders, President Martin W. Clement announced that a $23,177,686 surplus remained after appropriations from the 1939 net income were made. This, he said, was equivalent to 3.52 per cent on the railroad's outstanding stock, or $1.76 per share, compared with 23 cents a share in 1938.

Clement's report pointed out that a two per cent dividend, or $1 a share, was paid last Dec. 18, and the remaining $10,009,932 of the surplus was transferred to profit and loss. The 1939 dividend was double the 1938 dividend rate, the report emphasized.

Carloadings Jump

Asserting the nation's railroad carloadings jumped from 650,000 carloads weekly in August to 860,000 a week in October, Clement said railroads "took in their stride one of the sharpest upturns of industrial activity in history."

As a result of heavier volume of traffic in 1939, the Pennsylvania line's operating revenue increased $70,546,537 over 1938, the statement showed. Operating expenses rose $49,853,592.

President Clement commented that "increasing taxes are particularly burdensome to the railroads" in revealing that 9½ cents of every dollar of operating revenue went for taxes.

Committee Is Voted $50,000 More To Continue Its Investigation

By GRIFFING BANCROFT JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The congressional committee probing the National Labor Relations board was voted $50,000 more to continue its investigation today.

The additional funds were granted by a unanimous vote in the House. Originally granted $50,000 for its investigation, the committee would have been forced to stop work at the end of the month.

Meanwhile, the row between government agencies over sponsorship of a "blacklist" to bar government loans to firms accused of violating the National Labor Relations act broke into the open before the investigating committee.

Emil Schram, RFC chairman previously had testified that it was the labor board which sponsored the purported "blacklist"

But J Warren Madden, chairman of the board, made a surprise return appearance before the committee today and stated:

"I can't let the record stand that way. Mr. Schram made a mistake.

"As I said before, RFC officials approached us first in this matter. If we had made the approach I wouldn't be ashamed of it, but it just didn't happen that way."

Both Madden and Schram have agreed that an arrangement was made between their two agencies under the RFC furnished the labor board with lists of prospective government borrowers. The NLRB then checked off names of firms accused of violating the Wagner act.

Madden was flanked in his appearance before the committee by Thomas I. Emerson, associate federal counsel of the NLRB. Emerson claimed that the first step toward the agreement came when Charles M. Wright, assistant RFC counsel, telepnoned him. Emerson added:

"Wright said the RFC had a similar arrangement with the wage-hours administration and asked if we would be interested."

Stewards In The Kingdom

Highlights On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Parable of the talents

"Well done, good and faithful servant."—Matt. 25:21.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Feb. 25 is Matthew 24, 25, the Golden Text being Matthew 25:21, "Well done, good and faithful servant.")

Stewards in the kingdom is the subject of today's sesson. How, in other words, should we live and act during our lives so that we can be sure we are worthy to be classed among the righteous when the Lord comes again in glory.

You will remember that at the close of the last lesson Jesus wept over Jerusalem, prophesying its ruin and mourning that its people would not accept His message. In the beginning of today's lesson Jesus and His disciples went out of the temple, and in spite of all Jesus had told them of things to come, they wanted to show Him the various buildings and have Him admire them. Jesus reproved them, saying, "See ye not all these things? verily I say unto you, There shall not be left one stone upon another, that shall not be thrown down."

The disciples were curious about these sayings, and when He sat upon the Mount of Olives, from which He had a fine view of Jerusalem, they came to Him and asked Him privately, "Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of Thy coming, and of the end of the world?"

Jesus then told them of many things that would happen—famines, pestilences, wars. Many false prophets would appear, and many would believe these, but His true followers would not be deceived, but would go on steadfastly doing their duty and waiting until He the Lord of All, should appear. We have not room here to repeat His prophecies and tell of all Jesus told these humble followers of His.

Tells Parables

To Jesus the disciples must have seemed like children, and He made His meaning clear to them by way of parables, which symbolized what He expected of them when He should have gone.

We must always be ready for the coming. He tells us in the parable of the ten virgins who were to go to the wedding feast. We are told that they must have been girl friends of the bride and were bidden to be present at the wedding feast. None knew when the bridegroom would come, so the virgins provided themselves with lamps. Five of the virgins—those who were wise—took oil in vessels for their lamps; but the foolish ones took no oil. All slept until the cry was made, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye out to meet him!" Then the virgins trimmed their lamps and the wise ones filled theirs with oil and lighted them; but the foolish tried to borrow oil from the others, but were told that they had only enough for themselves. Then the virgins hastened to the merchants to get oil, but when they returned the bridegroom had come, and the gates were locked against them. "Lord, open to us," they cried, but He said, "Verily, I say unto you, I know ye not." Watch, therefore, Jesus said, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh.

Parable of Talents

The parable of the ten talents is then told. Talents were worth a great deal of money. This parable likened the kingdom of heaven to a man who traveled to a far country. Calling his servants he gave five talents to the first, two to the second and one to the third, according to his ability. Then he went away. When he came back after a long time, the man who had been given five talents had five more, ten in all, for him; and likewise the man who had two talents had doubled them. But the man who had only had one talent, had buried it in the garden and now brought it, probably corroded and thus worth less. To the first two the master said, "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of the lord." But as to him who had had but one talent and who had made nothing, he was cast into outer darkness.

In the day of judgment, "When the Son of Man shall come in His glory," He shall say to those on His right hand, "I was a-hungered, and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me in; naked, and ye clothed Me; I was sick and ye visited Me; I was in prison, and ye came unto Me." And they shall say, "Lord, when saw we Thee a-hungered, and fed Thee? or thirsty, and gave Thee drink? When saw we Thee a stranger, and took Thee in? or naked, and clothed Thee? Or when saw we Thee sick, or in prison, and came unto Thee?"

And the King shall answer and say unto them, "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

We are the "Stewards in the kingdom". So should we live that we will have no fear of whatever may befall us, even the Day of Judgment.

Nearly 6000 Farmers In State Secure Wheat Insurance

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23 — Pennsylvania farmers are participating in increasing numbers in the wheat insurance program, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation reports.

A total of 5910 Keystone State farmers have entered the 1940 program. They have insured 72,642 acres of wheat and paid premiums of 39,881 bushels of wheat. Estimated production of the 72,642 insured acres is placed at 1,105,173 bushels.

In Ohio the program is proving especially popular. In that state 28,347 farmers have insured 287,853 acres with an estimated production of 4,000,805 bushels.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

A mother reached in the medicine cabinet for a cough medicine.

In her haste and excitement she picked up the wrong bottle.

She gave her three children crude carbolic acid by mistake.

Two died soon afterwards, the third was disfigured for life.

A costly error and a lifetime of pitiful remorse.

Why poisons in the household medicine cabinet anyway?

They have no business there with other bottles.

The medicine cabinet is a catch-all for sundry odds and ends.

Rusty razor blades, dirty medicine dropper, unhygienic brushes.

Sticky teaspoon, empty toothpaste tubes, spilled talcum.

Mixed in with medicine bottles is a bottle of poison.

TRAFFIC CONTROL IS A HEADACHE TO SIAMESE POLICE

(International News Service)

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Traffic control, not crime, is the principal headache of Siamese police, Singkato Tongyai, 20-year-old Siamese prince who is studying police administration at Michigan State college, says.

"Traffic control rather than crimes of violence is the biggest police problem in Siam," the young prince said, pointing out:

"Most Siamese don't seem to be able to understand traffic regulations."

Says British Confiscate Money Mailed To Nazis

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — The British government has confiscated American mail addressed to Germany containing between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000, Senator Pepper (D) Florida of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asserted today.

Pepper, who investigated the mail seizures lengthily, said the money was enclosed in mail taken by the British from American Trans-Atlantic flying clippers at Bermuda. He said his information came from officials of Pan-American Airways, operators of the airline.

Most of the money, said Pepper, was enclosed in plain envelopes headed for Germany. Hardly any of the envelopes he added, bore a return address.

Some of the enclosures were unsigned he said.

A considerable part of the money was in bills of $100 denomination, and there were a few $1,000 bills, Pepper said. Very few of the missives were registered or insured.

Stopped By British

"Apparently most of this money was sent to Germany by sympathizers in America," he said. "My information is that a steady stream of such mail has been moving out of the United States, and that much of it, if not all, has been stopped by the British authorities in Bermuda.

"My information is that the British have confiscated between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000 in mail addressed to Germany."

Neither Pepper nor other members of the Foreign Relations Committee challenged the right of the British to confiscate money headed for Germany, although a rising wave of irritation at British censorship tactics was evident in both houses of congress.

Chairman Pittman (D) Nevada of the Foreign Relations Committee said the British had a perfect right to search American airplanes landing at Bermuda, and could legally confiscate mail headed for Germany. Mail addressed to neutrals, said Pittman, could not legally be taken.

Most senate Democratic leaders opposed pending proposals to compel the Trans-Atlantic American Airline to omit Bermuda on the crossing, making the first stop at the Portugal-owned Azores Islands. Pittman, Pepper, and Senate Democratic leader Barkley of Kentucky, said the state department was handling the situation, and had best be left unhampered for the present.

QUEEN TO BE CROWNED

Over 3500 Loads Of Snow And Ice Hauled Off Streets

Ten Day Period Provides Huge Task To New Castle Street Cleaning Department

It is doubtful if the city department of streets of which William H. Dunlap is director and Jack Brettell is commissioner, ever has experienced as troublesome a 10 days' period as existed up to a few days ago. And citizens who watched the snow fall, cover ice, melt into slush then disappear via truck have expressed appreciation of the department's good work.

The 10 days' period which began with a heavy snow a week ago Tuesday and was followed by another "Mother Goose blanket" last Sunday, resulted in 3,500 loads of snow and ice being removed. The snow was hauled in trucks and dumped into the Neshannock creek at Race street, Shenango river at Cherry street, Big Run and other places where it would flow away in the water.

Seventy-four men loaded snow and 55 men from the department of public assistance were employed to open gutters so water could flow into catch-basins and keep crosswalks clean.

During the 10 days' period the street department hauled and placed 150 loads of ashes to slippery streets.

Three graders operated in the paved sections of the city.

The street department employes opened lanes so that street cars could operate for the convenience of the non-auto traveling public.

The street department cleaned snow from church vicinities last Saturday only to have the streets covered again Sunday.

A clerk was kept on duty in the office and every complaint received by telephone was answered, it was reported. Many water nuisances were removed.

EAR FOR RADIO

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS—The average 11-year-old spends about one half as much time listening to the radio as he spends in school, according to a survey made by Dr. John P. McKay, principal of West Richmond Heights school. Broadcasts most popular with children, McKay found, are action dramas, variety shows including comedy, music and audience participation programs. About 83 per cent of the programs they listen to are not regular broadcasts for children, his survey showed.

PENNSY SHOWS INCOME GAIN

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—Riding the crest of a sharp upturn of industrial activity in the last four months of 1939, the Pennsylvania Railroad last year piled up a net income of $32,032,525—almost tripling the $11,046,100 income for 1938, the carrier reported today.

In his 83rd annual report to stockholders, President Martin W. Clement announced that a $23,177,686 surplus remained after appropriations from the 1939 net income were made. This, he said, was equivalent to 3.52 per cent on the railroad's outstanding stock, or $1.76 per share, compared with 23 cents a share in 1938.

Clement's report pointed out that a two per cent dividend, or $1 a share, was paid last Dec. 18, and the remaining $10,009,932 of the surplus was transferred to profit and loss. The 1939 dividend was double the 1938 dividend rate, the report emphasized.

Carloadings Jump

Asserting the nation's railroad carloadings jumped from 650,000 carloads weekly in August to 860,000 a week in October, Clement said railroads "took in their stride one of the sharpest upturns of industrial activity in history."

As a result of heavier volume of traffic in 1939, the Pennsylvania line's operating revenue increased $70,546,537 over 1938, the statement showed. Operating expenses rose $49,853,592.

President Clement commented that "increasing taxes are particularly burdensome to the railroads" in revealing that 9¼ cents of every dollar of operating revenue went for taxes.

Committee Is Voted $50,000 More To Continue Its Investigation

By GRIFFING BANCROFT JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The congressional committee probing the National Labor Relations board was voted $50,000 more to continue its investigation today.

The additional funds were granted by a unanimous vote in the House. Originally granted $50,000 for its investigation, the committee would have been forced to stop work at the end of the month.

Meanwhile, the row between government agencies over sponsorship of a "blacklist" to bar government loans to firms accused of violating. The National Labor Relations act broke into the open before the investigating committee.

Emil Schram, RFC chairman previously had testified that it was the labor board which sponsored the purported "blacklist"

But J. Warren Madden, chairman of the board, made a surprise return appearance before the committee today and stated:

"I can't let the record stand that way. Mr. Schram made a mistake. "As I said before, RFC officials approached us first in this matter. If we had made the approach I wouldn't be ashamed of it, but it just didn't happen that way."

Both Madden and Schram have agreed that an arrangement was made between their two agencies under the RFC furnished the labor board with lists of prospective government borrowers. The NLRB then checked off names of firms accused of violating the Wagner act.

Madden was flanked in his appearance before the committee by Thomas I. Emerson, associate federal counsel of the NLRB. Emerson claimed that the first step toward the agreement came when Charles M. Wright, assistant RFC counsel, telephoned him. Emerson added:

"Wright said the RFC had a similar arrangement with the wage-hours administration and asked if we would be interested."

Plans for a Girl Scout birthday party were made at the Redwing troop's meeting on Tuesday in Arthur McGill school. Isabel Braham will be hostess at the party.

At a recent meeting, patrol leaders and officers were elected as follows: Leaders, Isabel Braham; Winnie Shaffer, Betty Jane Blewitt; treasurer, Phyllis Double; scribe, Betty Jane Blewitt.

A horseshoe was formed and second class badges and cyclist badges were awarded.

Baer-Galento Battle Arouses Speculation

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—T. Tarzan Galento, Esq., of Orange, N. J., is an amazingly fat, loud and uncouth fellow who was through as a heavy weight fighter five years ago, but who, parodoxically, has amossed most of his fame and fortune since that time. Max Baer is one of the finest physical specimens ever to enter any sports arena, but he was thru before he ever started because of his lack of competitive spirit. He is just as loud as Galento and if possible, even a little more wacky. Both can punch and both can take a punch. They are strong, bellicose and generally unpredictable.

They will meet in May in Jersey City, N. J. for 15 or fewer rounds, the winner to be given a chance at Joe Louis for the world heavyweight championship which Baer once held and which Galento came within a punch of winning last summer when he tangled with Louis. In pugilistic parlance they are a couple of bums. Galento is too fat, too short-armed and too wide open, Baer won't fight beyond a certain point.

But of all the matches that could possibly be made we can think of none that will create more speculation or carry more promise of thrills and the unexpected. It all goes back to the fact aforementioned that both are tough and both can hit.

At first blush we will predict that Galento figures to make Baer quit in a few rounds, because Bear really is pitiful by this time, as he proved against Lou Nova last summer. Nova won on a technical knock out and later was stopped by Galento. Nova hasn't fought since and probably is through for good.

But aside from the strong possibility that after Baer absorbs a few of Galento's crude swings he will quit, the fact remains that this is the nearest thing to a close match between tough, two-fisted muggs imaginable. The fact that neither is any good doesn't detract from the potentialities of the match. The point is both can dish it out and take it.

Naturally, there is one man who can take them both, the same being Louis. But because he is so good and they so crude a match between him and either of them would be less interesting to think about than a match between the outstanding pugilistic screwballs of these times.

Because of the fact that Manager Joe Jacobs, Galento's brain trust, has sought the Baer fight for months we are persuaded to believe that Baer has scarecly more than an outside chance. Jacobs doesn't make any mistakes—not with a Louis fight during the summer hanging in the balance. He just as easily could have stalled on this one if he thought there was any doubt about the outcome.

However, it will be something to watch as long as it lasts, especially if Baer toughens up for it as he used to by banging his head against the wall in his training camp and Galento improves his wind and timing with a couple of gallons of beer a day. They are really something to think about.

Sweepida Winner Of Anita Derby

Pays 33-1; Royal Crusader Finishes Second; Weigh Anchor Third

ARCADIA, Cal., Feb. 23—The nut brown son of Sweepster, Sweepida, made turf history Thursday by copping Santa Anita's famous $50,000 added derby.

The California bred and owned broom tail, winner of only a mere $4,900 in the past two years, paid the astounding price of 33-1. Sweepida led all the way and passed the finish line a full length and a quarter ahead of the other 16 fast opponents. Many of the wildest plungers among the 35,000 spectators passed up the winner.

Plaingrove Drops To Cozy Giants

South Side Quintet Rings Up 15th Straight Win Of Year

The Cozy Giants basketball team rang up its 15th straight without a defeat victory last night at Plaingrove High floor, by taking the measure of a hard fighting Plaingrove Aces team. The score was 42-31.

At the half the Giants led by Captain Johnny Carik, Ovis Fruitt and Danish piled up a 21 to 11 lead. Fruitt a newcomer to the Giants lineup played a whale of a game, he is a former Shenango High star. Johnny Slosernick, sponsor of the team played a great game at guard and scored a field goal.

Hetrick and Kuth led the scoring attack for the Plaingrove team.

Five Titans Pittsburghers

Althought Coach Washabaugh used his entire squad in an easy early-season win over Geneva, 60-44, the Covenanters recent wins over Waynesburg and Pitt may make it hard-going for the Titans to repeat.

Probable starters for this Saturday night's game with Geneva in the Titan gym at 8:15 will be: Patton and Mel Miller or Fox, forwards; Fred Miller or Stan Wasik, center; and Charles Ridl and Spak or J. Hetra, guards.

Last minute changes in the starting lineup are anticipated.

The Titan record for the season is seven won and five lost, with six games remaining on the schedule.

Cubs Prepare To Start Training For 1940 Season

(International News Service)

AVALON, Cal., Feb. 23.—The where-abouts and intentions of the unpredictable Dizzy Dean were matters of speculation today as the first contingent of the Chicago Cubs prepared to start training for the 1940 baseball season.

No one, from Manager Gabby Hartnett to Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis, knew whether Dean was enroute to the camp or still was determined to hold out for a better contract offer. When last quoted the eccentric pitcher said he would retire rather than accept the $10,000 a year contract reportedly offered him. It was believed Dean was demanding $15,000.

Those on hand included most of the Cubs' pitchers and catchers with the main body of Bruins scheduled to reach camp next Thursday.

Outfielders Hank Leiber and Augie Galan and Third Baseman Stan Hack are other holdouts, but Hartnett said he'd not worry about them until he found out whether they were going to report next week.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Niblets:—Wampum High's plucky hoopsters had a banner season, winning 17 out of 22 clashes. Although the next cage season is far off, the Cementers loom as potential Section 20 champs. With Craine, Hervatine, Johnson, Bennett and Frank back for 1940-41 maneuvers, Wampum expects to have one of its strongest aggregations in years. Kuiken, Julius, Matthews, Ippolito and Bingham receive sheepskins in June. Coach L. B. Hennon has done a splendid job despite the fact that Wampum did most of its basketeering on a floor the size of a ticket booth

John W. Jones, R. F. D. No. 2, New Castle, a staunch follower of Union Township High's athletic course, has selected a Section 20 all-star team. Jones states that he has seen all players in action, thus qualifying him for the task. At the forward slots, Jones has chosen Pearson, New Wilmington, and Pilch, Union; Minner, New Wilmington draws the center assignment, with Chiafullo, Union, and Brest, Mt. Jackson, winning the sentinel posts. Minner has also been selected as captain of Jones' outfit....

Diamond Musings: Dominic Dallesandro, back in the majors, with the Cubs, is only five feet, six. He is one of the smallest men in the big show....College diamonds are proving hotbeds for outstanding layers. Charley Keller was plucked from Maryland's campus; Red Rolfe came from Dartmouth; Buddy Hassett from Manhattan; Johnny Murphy formerly wore Fordham's colors; Bill Werber is a product of Duke University and Merrill May, the sensational Phil, attended Indiana. The Yanks grabbed Lou Gehrig from Columbia.....

Bits of this and that:—One of the oddities of the sports world concerns St. Louis which is regarded as the worst baseball town, from an attendance standpoint. Yet, St. Louis consistently outdraws other minor league hockey cities. Even towns twice as big—such as Cleveland....Coach Eddie Anderson and his All-American honey, Nile Kinnick, are still making the banquet rounds....Panzer College is setting a dizzy pace in basketball. The team is undefeated in 34 encounters.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Frank Crisci has hopes of making good as a baseball scout. Press of business kept him from journeying south with some boys who are attending a baseball school. . . . Tip to county sportsmen: Bob Sherman says Hugh Tate, the former baseball player, who also is a big game hunter, can wow 'em with hunting and fishing stories. Tate is in Greenville. There's a tip out that efforts are being made to bring Col. Theodore Roosevelt here to address the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association. . . . One farmer in Lawrence county has banned fox hunters. He claims they ruined a covering over his cabbage cache, which the captain of the fox hunters denies. . . . Babe Orgavan will fight Tony Zale in Youngstown, February 29. Johnny Dean, ex-marine, beat the Babe in Houston, Texas, in 10 rounds, according to a record handed us some months ago. Dean will fight a semi-windup on the card. Tom McMahon, former middleweight, light-heavyweight and heavyweight, will referee the amateur boxing bouts in Ellwood City, Saturday night. Although Tom's hair now is silvery and he isn't as supple as he once was, he does know when a boxer is outclassed. "I'm in there to see that everyone gets a fair deal. If I permitted a boy to be battered when he had no chance I wouldn't be much of a referee," said Tom. "I would prefer stopping a fight too soon and save a boy from a bad beating than act too late and have all the 'fire' taken out of him," he explained, which is a good way of looking at amateur boxing.

Al Davis fights his most important fight tonight in New York City. He faces Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers in an overweight match. The bout is scheduled to go 10 rounds. Davis has earned 22 kayoes in 37 bouts.....Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing conference finals will be held at Lewisburg March 14 and 15.

TRAFFIC CONTROL IS A HEADACHE TO SIAMESE POLICE

(International News Service)

EAST LANSING, Mich.—Traffic control, not crime, is the principal headache of Siamese police, Singkato Tongyai, 20-year-old Siamese prince who is studying police administration at Michigan State college, says.

Traffic control rather than crimes of violence is the biggest police problem in Siam," the young prince said, pointing out:

"Most Siamese don't seem to be able to understand traffic regulations."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—CONVINCING PERFORMANCE

Bartle And Nick La Volpe To Box "Rubber" Match

PETE SPOTTI TO FIGHT DELARADO

When Benny Bartle, the former high school gridder of Ellwood City, takes on Nick La Volpe, the Youngstown walloper in a three-round amateur boxing bout in Lincoln gym, Ellwood City, Saturday night, it will be the "rubber match" and consequently fandom can anticipate a lot of leather being tossed to and fro.

Bartle, practically an unknown in the Art of Self Defense, travelled to Farrell and gave the Buckeye battler a thorough over-hauling. After Bartle took a decision from Mickie Rubin here, Bartle gave Nick a second chance but muffed the bout, and Nick motored homeward with the knowledge that their meetings were even.

When Messrs. Joe Latiano and Merritt Book figured who they could get to please the fistic palates of fans they "hit upon" a "rubber match" for Benny and Nick. In fact it would not be surprising were it to prove a rubber match with either bouncing up and down from the canvas before the setto is finished.

Other Good Bouts

However, the Bartle-La Volpe 175-pound fight will not be the only battle to aid the Ellwood City Hospital Orthopedic fund, which is being sponsored by the B. P. O. E. of that city. Indeed not. The card is crowded with pugilistic diadems and one of the crown holders is Pete Spotti, Diamond Belt welterweight champion.

He's going to give Ted Delarado, the East Liverpool socker a chance. Ted scored one of the neatest knockouts yet scored in the Arena here. If Spotti knows how to mix with southpaws, Mr. Ted is going to be in for a rough Evening's Evenin'.

The Rtardo boys, Nick, a lightweight and Babe, a bantamweight, will appear on the fistic card. Nick will battle Bud Watson of East Liverpool and Babe will swap punches with Al Dundee, a right smart kid of Cecil. The Retardoes are no person's saps, hence good fights loom.

Frankie Moran, feather weight of this city will fight. Just whom is not known. Benny Malone of Pittsburgh didn't appear here for which he ought to be set down by the commission. As a result Moran went through an exhibition and was salvaged with booing until it was explained why he was holding his punches.

Slam-Bang Reale On

Billy Reale, Castlewood, who has hands with whipcord muscles and legs, as strong as Gibralter, because of his traveling in the wake of a plow will fight Noran Fitch of East Liverpool at 155. Fitch has shown to good advantage here.

Al Sayers of East Liverpool, who a year ago claimed the West Virginia title at 147, will fight ex-champion of the diamond belt tourney, Sammy Secrete. If Sayers will meet Sammy half way there'll be a fight all of the way.

Buck Chambers, a West Pittsburg lad who went to New Castle high, although not nearly as experienced as Steve Morgan of Youngstown, hopes to make a good showing. If he can get over Steve he will have plenty of future bouts ahead of him at 160 pounds.

Ray Lacasino, Ellwood City, will meet Al Vancovitch, Monaca, and Roy Crews, also of Ellwood City, will exchange swings with Sammy Portland of Ambridge, in the opening two bouts.

The fighters will end training today. The fights Saturday will start at 9 p. m. The referee will be Tom McMahon, this city, and judges, Dr. Keppen, Beaver Falls, and Emmett Rocco, formerly prominent as a heavyweight and one of the best this district ever has produced. Tommy Newman and Joe Smith will handle the clock pieces.

Brotherhood Day Is Observed Here With Fine Program

Prof. Harold Caplan, Of High School Faculty, Is Principal Speaker

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—A fairly representative assemblage of some two hundred Protestants, Catholics and Jews gathered at the Lincoln high school gymnasium last evening for the first local observance of National Brotherhood week, celebrated nationally on Washington's birthday. The meeting was most worthwhile and marked with enthusiasm.

Prof. Harold Caplan, of the high school faculty, was the guest speaker and he gave a splendid address in which he showed how Protestants, Catholics and Jews worked together in building the United States after the Revolutionary war, and how they all joined in signing the Declaration of Independence.

A clever play concerning the various faiths and how their complete cooperation is necessary in maintaining world unity was ably portrayed by Attorneys Michael A. Barletta, J. W. Humphrey and Allen Keller.

The stage was appropriately decorated with American flags arranged about a large portrait of Washington.

To plan some form of organization through which this fellowship might continue, a meeting will be held next Thursday evening at 7:45 p. m., in the Sunday school rooms of the First Presbyterian church.

The complete program of worship follows:

Dr. A. M. Stevenson, presiding:

"America The Beautiful"—assembly.

Violin Solo—John Kuczmarski; "Meditation"—Massinet; "Romance"—Wieniawsky; Robert Stevenson, accompanist.

Address, "America, Built on Brotherhood"—Prof. Harold Caplan.

Says British Confiscate Money Mailed To Nazis

By EDWARD E. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — The British government has confiscated American mail addressed to Germany containing between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000, Senator Pepper (D) Florida of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee asserted today.

Pepper, who investigated the mail seizures lengthily, said the money was enclosed in mail taken by the British from American Trans-Atlantic flying clippers at Bermuda. He said his information came from officials of Pan-American Airways, operators of the airline.

Most of the money, said Pepper, was enclosed in plain envelopes headed for Germany. Hardly any of the envelopes he added, bore a return address.

Some of the enclosures were unsigned he said.

A considerable part of the money was in bills of $100 denomination, and there were a few $1,000 bills, Pepper said. Very few of the missives were registered or insured.

Stopped By British

"Apparently most of this money was sent to Germany by sympathizers in America," he said. "My information is that a steady stream of such mail has been moving out of the United States, and that much of it, if not all, has been stopped by the British authorities in Bermuda.

"My information is that the British have confiscated between $14,000,000 and $17,000,000 in mail addressed to Germany."

Neither Pepper nor other members of the Foreign Relations Committee challenged the right of the British to confiscate money headed for Germany, although a rising wave of irritation at British censorship tactics was evident in both houses of congress.

Chairman Pittman (D) Nevada of the Foreign Relations Committee said the British had a perfect right to search American airplanes landing at Bermuda, and could legally confiscate mail headed for Germany. Mail addressed to neutrals, said Pittman, could not legally be taken.

Most senate Democratic leaders opposed pending proposals to compel the Trans-Atlantic American Airline to omit Bermuda on the crossing, making the first stop at the Portugal-owned Azores Islands. Pittman, Pepper, and Senate Democratic leader Barkley of Kentucky, said the state department was handling the situation, and had best be left unhampered for the present.

QUEEN TO BE CROWNED

Ten Day Period Provides Huge Task To New Castle Street Cleaning Department

It is doubtful if the city department of streets of which William H. Dunlap is director and Jack Brettell is commissioner, ever has experienced as troublesome a 10 days' period as existed up to a few days ago. And citizens who watched the snow fall, cover ice, melt into slush then disappear via truck have expressed appreciation of the department's good work.

The 10 days' period which began with a heavy snow a week ago Tuesday and was followed by another "Mother Goose blanket" last Sunday, resulted in 3,500 loads of snow and ice being removed. The snow was hauled in trucks and dumped into the Neshannock creek at Race street, Shenango river at Cherry street, Big Run and other places where it would flow away in the water.

Seventy-four men loaded snow and 55 men from the department of public assistance were employed to open gutters so water could flow into catch-basins and keep crosswalks clean.

During the 10 days' period the street department hauled and placed 150 loads of ashes to slippery streets.

Three graders operated in the paved sections of the city.

The street department employes opened lanes so that street cars could operate for the convenience of the non-auto traveling public.

The street department cleaned snow from church vicinities last Saturday only to have the streets covered again Sunday.

A clerk was kept on duty in the office and every complaint received by telephone was answered, it was reported. Many water nuisances were removed.

EAR FOR RADIO

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS.—The average 11-year-old spends about one half as much time listening to the radio as he spends in school, according to a survey made by Dr. John P. McKay, principal of West Richmond Heights school. Broadcasts most popular with children, McKay found, are action dramas, variety shows including comedy, music and audience participation programs. About 83 per cent of the programs they listen to are not regular broadcasts for children, his survey showed.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Yesterday was George Washington's Birthday . . . and to public officials and government business houses and the like it was a day to be closed. Also it was a day to fly that great Flag of the United States of America . . . but we noticed that nary a flag appeared on the property of the New Castle library . . . we like to see Old Glory wave in the breeze and when it's not there we miss it.

According to reports from the south land . . . the talk this year has been about the weather we have been having up north here. It seems that all other topics have been sidestepped . . . of course it works similar to the talk one hears in Sunny California by the Chamber of Commerce . . . out west they say it never rains to spoil one's vacation . . . they just have heavy dew . . . down south when the frost came we wonder what they said . . . and again many people are saying give us Pennsylvania where men are men and women like them thata way.

And if you walk on the road at night, take heed to this little bit of news from the files of the AAA office.

"Few pedestrians who do not drive, realize how hard it is for motorists to see them at night. AAA studies show that those headlights which look so bright to the walker, fail to reveal him to the driver until the car is often dangerously near. So walk on the left side, facing oncoming cars and wear or carry something white."

A spaniel dog . . . about one year old . . . black in color, strayed away from its home early last evening . . . (it was one of the dogs listed in this column last night and the new owner had just taken it home) . . . in case you know the whereabouts of this dog please call 5510 immediately and the new owner will come for it.

On January 30th the President's Ball was held . . . we are wondering if we missed the financial report for this affair or maybe those in charge neglected to hand it to our editor. We would like to compare the earnings of New Castle with those of other towns of our size.

Baer-Galento Battle Arouses Speculation

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—T. Tarzan Galento, Esq., of Orange, N. J., is an amazingly fat, loud and uncouth fellow who was through as a heavyweight fighter five years ago, but who, parodoxically, has amassed most of his fame and fortune since that time. Max Baer is one of the finest physical specimens ever to enter any sports arena, but he was thru before he ever started because of his lack of competitive spirit. He is just as loud as Galento and if possible, even a little more wacky. Both can punch and both can take a punch. They are strong, bellicose and generally unpredictable.

They will meet in May in Jersey City, N. J. for 15 or fewer rounds, the winner to be given a chance at Joe Louis for the world heavyweight championship which Baer once held and which Galento came within a punch of winning last summer when he tangled with Louis. In pugilistic parlance they are a couple of bums. Galento is too fat, too short-armed and too wide open. Baer won't fight beyond a certain point.

But of all the matches that could possibly be made we can think of none that will create more speculation or carry more promise of thrills and the unexpected. It all goes back to the fact aforementioned that both are tough and both can hit.

At first blush we will predict that Galento figures to make Baer quit in a few rounds, because Bear really is pitiful by this time, as he proved against Lou Nova last summer. Nova won on a technical knock out and later was stopped by Galento. Nova hasn't fought since and probably is through for good.

But aside from the strong possibility that after Baer absorbs a few of Galento's crude swings he will quit, the fact remains that this is the nearest thing to a close match between tough, two-fisted muggs imaginable. The fact that neither is any good doesn't detract from the potentialities of the match. The point is both can dish it out and take it.

Naturally, there is one man who can take them both, the same being Louis. But because he is so good and they so crude a match between him and either of them would be less interesting to think about than a match between the outstanding pugilistic screwballs of these times.

Because of the fact that Manager Joe Jacobs, Galento's brain trust, has sought the Baer fight for months we are persuaded to believe that Baer has scarcely more than an outside chance. Jacobs doesn't make any mistakes—not with a Louis fight during the summer hanging in the balance. He just as easily could have stalled on this one if he thought there was any doubt about the outcome.

However, it will be something to watch as long as it lasts, especially if Baer toughens up for it as he used to by banging his head against the wall in his training camp and Galento improves his wind and timing with a couple of gallons of beer a day. They are really something to think about.

Sweepida Winner Of Anita Derby

Pays 33-1; Royal Crusader Finishes Second; Weigh Anchor Third

ARCADIA, Cal., Feb. 23—The nut brown son of Sweepster, Sweepida, made turf history Thursday by copping Santa Anita's famous $50,000 added derby.

The California bred and owned broom tail, winner of only a mere $4,900 in the past two years, paid the astounding price of 33-1. Sweepida led all the way and passed the finish line a full length and a quarter ahead of the other 16 fast opponents. Many of the wildest plungers among the 35,000 spectators passed up the winner.

Royal Crusader finished second, while Weigh Anchor passed the finish line third.

Plaingrove Drops To Cozy Giants

South Side Quintet Rings Up 15th Straight Win Of Year

The Cozy Giants basketball team rang up its 15th straight without a defeat victory last night at Plaingrove High floor, by taking the measure of a hard fighting Plaingrove Aces team. The score was 42-31.

At the half the Giants led by Captain Johnny Carik, Ovis Fruitt and Danish piled up a 21 to 11 lead. Fruitt a newcomer to the Giants lineup played a whale of a game, he is a former Shenango High star. Johnny Slosernick, sponsor of the team played a great game at guard and scored a field goal.

Hetrick and Kuth led the scoring attack for the Plaingrove team.

Checking a belated rally, Penn State's cage combination nipped Temple's Owls, 33-31, last night. The Lions' zone defense forced the Philly representatives to bombard the hoops at long range.

Five Titans Pittsburghers

Althought Coach Washabaugh used his entire squad in an easy early-season win over Geneva, 60-44, the Covenanters recent wins over Waynesburg and Pitt may make it hard-going for the Titans to repeat.

Probable starters for this Saturday night's game with Geneva in the Titan gym at 8:15 will be: Patton and Mel Miller or Fox, forwards; Fred Miller or Stan Wasik, center; and Charles Ridl and Spak or J. Hetra, guards.

Last minute changes in the starting lineup are anticipated.

The Titan record for the season is seven won and five lost, with six games remaining on the schedule.

Cubs Prepare To Start Training For 1940 Season

(International News Service)

AVALON, Cal. Feb. 23.—The where-abouts and intentions of the unpredictable Dizzy Dean were matters of speculation today as the first contingent of the Chicago Cubs prepared to start training for the 1940 baseball season.

No one, from Manager Gabby Hartnett to Traveling Secretary Bob Lewis, knew whether Dean was enroute to the camp or still was determined to hold out for a better contract offer. When last quoted the eccentric pitcher said he would retire rather than accept the $10,000 a year contract reportedly offered him. It was believed Dean was demanding $15,000.

Those on hand included most of the Cubs' pitchers and catchers, with the main body of Bruins scheduled to reach camp next Thursday.

Outfielders Hank Leiber and Augie Galan and Third Baseman Stan Hack are other holdouts, but Hartnett said he'd not worry about them until he found out whether they were going to report next week.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Niblets:—Wampum High's plucky hoopsters had a banner season, winning 17 out of 22 clashes. Although the next cage season is far off, the Cementers loom as potential Section 20 champs. With Craine, Hervatine, Johnson, Bennett and Frank back for 1940-41 maneuvers, Wampum expects to have one of its strongest aggregations in years. Kulken, Julius, Matthews, Ippolito and Bingham receive sheepskins in June. Coach L. B. Hennon has done a splendid job despite the fact that Wampum did most of its basketeering on a floor the size of a ticket booth.

John W. Jones, R. F. D. No. 2, New Castle, a staunch follower of Union Township High's athletic course, has selected a Section 20 all-star team. Jones states that he has seen all players in action, thus qualifying him for the task. At the forward slots, Jones has chosen Pearson, New Wilmington, and Pilch, Union; Minner, New Wilmington draws the center assignment, with Chiafullo, Union, and Brest, Mt. Jackson, winning the sentinel posts. Minner has also been selected as captain of Jones' outfit....

Diamond Musings: Dominic Dallesandro, back in the majors, with the Cubs, is only five feet, six. He is one of the smallest men in the big show....College diamonds are proving hotbeds for outstanding layers. Charley Keller was plucked from Maryland's campus; Red Rolfe came from Dartmouth; Buddy Hassett from Manhattan; Johnny Murphy formerly wore Fordham's colors; Bill Werber is a product of Duke University and Merrill May, the sensational Phil, attended Indiana. The Yanks grabbed Lou Gehrig from Columbia.....

Bits of this and that:—One of the oddities of the sports world concerns St. Louis which is regarded as the worst baseball town, from an attendance standpoint. Yet, St. Louis consistently outdraws other minor league hockey cities. Even towns twice as big—such as Cleveland....Coach Eddie Anderson and his All-American honey, Nile Kinnick, are still making the banquet rounds....Panzer College is setting a dizzy pace in basketball. The team is undefeated in 34 encounters.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Frank Crisci has hopes of making good as a baseball scout. Press of business kept him from journeying south with some boys who are attending a baseball school. . . . Tip to county sportsmen: Bob Sherman says Hugh Tate, the former baseball player, who also is a big game hunter, can wow 'em with hunting and fishing stories. Tate is in Greenville. There's a tip out that efforts are being made to bring Col. Theodore Roosevelt here to address the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association. . . . One farmer in Lawrence county has banned fox hunters. He claims they ruined a covering over his cabbage cache, which the captain of the fox hunters denies. . . . Babe Orgavan will fight Tony Zale in Youngstown, February 29. Johnny Dean, ex-marine, beat the Babe in Houston, Texas, in 10 rounds, according to a record handed us some months ago. Dean will fight a semi-windup on the card. Tom McMahon, former middleweight, light-heavyweight and heavyweight, will referee the amateur boxing bouts in Ellwood City, Saturday night. Although Tom's hair now is silvery and he isn't as supple as he once was, he does know when a boxer is outclassed. "I'm in there to see that everyone gets a fair deal. If I permitted a boy to be battered when he had no chance I wouldn't be much of a referee," said Tom. "I would prefer stopping a fight too soon and save a boy from a bad beating than act too late and have all the fire taken out of him," he explained, which is a good way of looking at amateur boxing.

Al Davis fights his most important fight tonight in New York City. He faces Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers in an overweight match. The bout is scheduled to go 10 rounds. Davis has earned 22 kayoes in 37 bouts. . . . Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing conference finals will be held at Lewisburg March 14 and 15.

Trading Quiet In Day's Market

Minor Losses Occur After Irregular Opening Of New York Market

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The stock marqet declined today after an irregular opening. Trading quieted down after a fairly active start.

Some of the specialties suffered sharp breaks, but for the most part losses were minor. Aviations were the sole group to move against this trend.

Eastman Kodak was a feature in the dull market with a loss of over five points. This was exceptional, though Loft was more than a point lower and Sears lost almost as much. Chemicals were mixed. Allied dropped 1; DuPont gained 1. Union Carbide was off ¾.

In aviations Douglas was up ⅝ and others in the group gained less. Both Chrysler and General Motors declined fractions. Bethlehem held steady and other steels lost small fractions.

Coppers were unchanged to almost a point lower. Oils and rubbers followed the same pattern. Rails and utilities were irregular.

Commodities were strong. Wheat in Chicago advanced 1½ cents to the best level since Jan. 3, and a 3-cents a pound rise in March cotton put that contract at the best price since Jan. 18.

Foreign markets were irregular. Foreign exchanges were easier.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION REPORT

At the end of the fifth month of the testing year of the Lawrence County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, the testers Wayne Walker and Frank Wright report 34 herds were tested with a total of 649 cows in the association. For the month of January, 1940, 96 cows produced 40 pounds of butterfat or more and 33 in this group had records for the month of over 50 pounds fat. There were 28 cows in the association that produced in excess of 1,200 pounds milk for the period.

A four-year-old Jersey owned by Lauren Thompson, New Wilmington, Pa., led the association in individual records for the month by producing 1,246 pounds milk and 77.3 pounds butterfat during the testing period. Next in the list of ten high cows in butterfat production was a four-year-old Jersey owned by F. W. Byers, North Beaver Township, having produced 1,231 pounds of milk and 65.2 pounds fat. The next two cows in the list were a three and a four-year-old pair of Jerseys, owned by Lauren Thompson, whose records for the month were 64.6 pounds fat and 64.3 pounds fat. A Jersey owned by N. E. Sampson, Volant, Pa., came fifth with a 63.4 pounds record of butterfat production for the 31-day testing period.

The Holstein herd of H. B. Hoye, New Castle, Pa., No. 2, led the association in milk production for the month, producing an average of 944.6 pounds of milk and 29.53 pounds of fat per cow. The mixed herd owned by K. R. Brenner, Rochester, Pa., was second averaging 775.3 pounds milk, and 28.44 pounds fat. D. H. Brenner, Rochester, Pa., was the owner of the third high milk production herd, with a record of 768.5 pounds milk per cow.

The Jersey herd owned by Lauren Thompson led the association in butterfat production with an average of 40.05 pounds fat per cow. Second high in butterfat production was the Jersey herd of J. W. Martin, Bessemer, Pa., with an average of 34.62 pounds fat. The herd of Jerseys owned by J. W. Bronson, New Galilee, Pa., was third with an average production of 34.55 pounds butterfat per cow.

The average cow in the association during the month of January produced 536.9 pounds milk and 24.18 pounds fat with an average test of 4.50 per cent.

CROSS POLLINATION OF APPLES IMPROVES CROP

When a large block of an apple orchard is limited to a single variety, lack of cross-pollination may result in low yields. This condition can be remedied by using bouquets from good pollinating varieties. To insure an adequate supply of bouquets, leave a number of suitable trees unpruned.

Yields in a number of Lawrence County orchards have suffered because the owners failed to arrange for cross-pollination. Such varieties as Stayman and McIntosh usually set little fruit without the help of outside pollen. In favorable years, York and Rome may set a fair crop. However, all varieties will produce more fruit if cross-pollinated. Yields of York, which is only partially self-sterile, have been trebled by the use of Jonathan bouquets.

Practically every variety which produces good pollen is suitable for pollinating varieties blossoming at approximately the same time. Grimes, Delicious, McIntosh, Jonathan, York, Rome, Ben Davis, Gano, Golden Delicious, Wealthy, Cortland, Duchess and Yellow Transparent ordinarily are good pollinators. Varieties unsuitable for pollination include Winesap, Paragon or Black Twig, Stayman, Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening, Tompkins, King and Summer Rambo.

Six to eight branches two or three feet long and well laden with blossoms make an excellent bouquet. Place the base of the bouquet in a buck of water well up in the tree. Two bouquets in every second tree in every other row have been found satisfactory for producing a heavy set of fruit in formerly unproductive orchards.

To insure maximum distribution of the small amount of pollen provided by the bouquets, use one strong colony of bees for each acre of orchard.

Grafting with desirable pollinating varieties is the permanent answer to the problem of cross-pollination. However, it will be several years after grafting before the scions will begin blossoming. During that period, heavier production can be obtained by the use of bouquets.

SHEEP REFLECT WINTER CARE IN FUTURE PROFITS

Improper management has caused the discontinuance of sheep raising on many farms. The care given sheep during the winter is reflected in future returns from the flock.

It is important to feed breeding ewes a legume roughage, such as alfalfa, clover, or soybean hay. At this season, corn silage and such roots as turnips, rutabagas, and mangels will furnish splendid succulent feed. Avoid spoiled or frozen silage. Two to three pounds of silage are considered sufficient until after the lambs are dropped. It is best to supplement any roughage with a good grain mixture, such as oats and bran, for three to six weeks before lambing. If the ewes are lacking in flesh, a little corn or barley can be added profitably to the ration.

It is essential that ewes exercise. Some farmers make their flocks work by feeding roughage some distance from the barn.

Water must always be available since the average ewe requires at least a gallon of water per day. Salt is another essential which the ewe flock must have.

Like other kinds of livestock, sheep respond in direct proportion to the care given them. The farmer is the most important factor in the sheep business. He must give close attention to details. For example, the man who is able to make a profit from sheep notices the ewe that fails to appear at the feed rack or does not have milk for her newly born lamb.

FOR BEST POTATO CROP USE DISEASE-FREE SEED

If you haven't already ordered your potato seed, remember that the supply of high quality stock is relatively scarce. To produce the best crop possible under your conditions, it is absolutely essential to use disease-free seed.

In selecting potato seed, you should first consider whether it is disease-free and then whether it has been properly stored and handled. Disease is the most troublesome problem which growers must consider in the selection of their seed. Many of them fail to realize that a disease may be present even though it isn't noticeable in the tubers.

There are two approved methods for securing satisfactory seed. The simplest but most expensive method is the purchase of sufficient certified seed to meet your requirements. The other is to purchase certified stock from which to grow seed for planting next year. Seed not more than one-year removed from certification is satisfactory for planting if properly grown. It is important that all diseased plants be removed. Secure your certified seed from the northern producing areas.

GOOD FITTING MENS WORK CLOTHES MEAN COMFORT

Mother and her daughters choose their cotton house dresses with an eye to beauty as well as washability. Also father and the boys can spruce up for their work in washable attractive utility clothes—overalls, service coats, coveralls, and other styles of work clothes.

To most men, overalls mean denim, says Miss Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. Overalls also are made of twill, covert, hickory stripe, drill, and jeans. Chambray is used for work shirts and children's play suits.

Men's utility garments have been greatly improved in recent years both as to appearance and fit, Miss Markle points out. The best work garments on the market today are available in tailored sizes, which means that the garments are cut in the proper proportions to care for the variations in all body measurements and not simply waist and leg measurements. In this way, better fit and comfort is assured every type of man—tall, short, slim, stout, or average.

Overalls should not shrink nor fade, and they should last a long time as well as make the man fairly presentable in appearance. When you buy overalls, look for a label telling you that the material is firm and strong, that it is vat dyed and has been sanforized. Look at the seams and see that they are lapped with no raw edges and are triple stitched where they receive heavy strain. There should not be less than ten stitches to the inch. "Bar tacking," stitching cross-wise of the seams, is used to strengthen points likely to be torn or pulled.

She adds that rust proof buttons and buckles are "musts" for work clothes and the buttons should be riveted on the material.

VERTEBRAE INJURED BY SLAP ON BACK

(International News Service)

COALDALE, Pa., Feb. 23—Weldon Watkins, 21, was in Coaldale State hospital with three broken vertebrae today because a friend slapped him on the back to "cut in" at a dance a week ago.

Watkins thought little of the hearty slap until he began having serious pains several days later. X-ray examinations disclosed the fractures and hospital surgeons said he may have to remain in a cast two months.

Three Surrender To Detroit Police On Lottery Charges

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—Surrender of the three principal figures in Detroit's latest official upheaval, sought by police for 36 hours on charges of conspiracy in connection with operation of a lottery, today climaxed a six-month-old grand jury probe of gambling and alleged police corruption.

An hour before circuit court opened, former Police Superintendent Fred W. Frahm, ousted in the recent police department violent shakeup, entered the court room of Judge Homer Ferguson, conducting the probe, and surrendered.

Hardly had court officials and newsmen recovered from their surprise when Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea and his chief investigator, Harry Colburn, arrived and announced themselves ready to fight the conspiracy charges.

The three were immediately arraigned and stood mute. Pleas of not guilty were entered and the men freed on $1,000 bond each. Examination was set for March 2.

McCrea was cheered by news from Lansing that Gov. Luren D. Dickinson would not remove him from office until convicted.

Woman Is Indicted On Murder Charge

Woman Who Killed Her Mother And Leaped From Hotel Window, Faces Charge

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Agnes West, 34-year-old former West Virginia university student, who leaped from a sixth floor hotel room in which her mother was strangled to death last January 2, has been indicted for her parent's slaying, District Attorney Andrew Park announced today.

The mother, Mrs. Agnes West, 56, was strangled with her own scarf. The daughter, a former mental patient in Huntington, W. Va., remained in the room with her for several hours and then leaped from the sixth floor window. She suffered a fractured vertebrae in the fall and has been hospitalized since.

Miss West will be given a test at the behavior clinic as soon as her condition permits, Park said.

Maintains Hunger Strike For Love

(International News Service)

CLAYTON, Mo., Feb. 23.—Melvin F. Miller, 30-year-old scissors grinder, part-time preacher and fasting Romeo, today continued his hunger strike for love in a cell at the St. Louis county jail.

Miller, who chained himself to a tree near the Florissant, Mo., home of Miss Edith Perkins, 31, petite, blond stenographer, and went on a hunger strike in order to attract her attention, was freed by deputies and brought to jail Wednesday night. Miller declares that Miss Perkins, whom he met 12 years ago and whom he says has spurned his attentions, has written him that she wouldn't marry him if he were "the last man on earth."

"I'll not eat until she brings me the food in her own hands," Miller told jailers as he declined jail meals. Miller meanwhile was beginning to show signs of weakness and may be taken to a hospital.

He occupied himself last night by writing a 13-page letter to Miss Perkins in which he stated that he would "keep on fasting" until he and the object of his affections "come to an understanding".

"I'll be glad to eat anything you cook," Miller said in his letter.

No Short Weight Being Given Here

No short weight in foodstuffs, coal or gasoline is being given in New Castle or other points in Lawrence county, according to C. R. Balph, who inspects weights and measures for both the city and county of Lawrence.

Balph said he has not had occasion to bring prosecutions since he assumed office. "In fact," the inspector added, "I have received no complaints and it is seldom that I have found any scale which required adjustment."

There is one condition, Balph advised, that must be corrected immediately, else prosecution will follow. He said 225 coal dealers have paid for their 1940 licenses, but about 100 have not taken out this year's license, which is a law violation.

Balph tours the city and county to perform his duties. There is no advance warning of his inspection.

Relief Districts In Some Instances Showing Decreases

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23—Three of four relief districts served by the state treasury today showed decreases in relief payments as compared to 1939.

Only the Scranton district reported an increase in relief needs.

State Treasurer F. Clair Ross blamed "unsatisfactory employment" conditions in the anthracite region for the Scranton situation.

Ross reported that for the week ending Wednesday, February 21, relief payments amounting to $1,385,291 were made, an increase of $6,000 over the previous week.

Payments for the week, however, were more than $500,000 less than for a comparable week in 1939.

In Scranton, the current week's payments totalled $244,735 as compared to $244,529 for the previous week and $184,384 during the same period of 1939.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23—Barbara Bieling, seven and her brother, Donald six, were killed and a friend Nancy Dean, nine, was injured today when they were struck by an automobile while skipping to school with clasped hands.

The car, which contained five women, struck the children at an intersection one block from the Conwell public school. The women and the mother of Barbara and Donald became hysterical and were treated for shock by physicians.

The automobile which, police said was operated by Greta Zollihofer, had to be lifted from the bodies of the three youngsters. The father of the dead brother and sister is a plumber. He could not be located immediately.

Traffic patrolman Thomas Chriswell reported the children were skipping across the street under his protection when the tragedy occurred. "I had my arms outstretched to stop traffic, but apparently the woman driver didn't see me" Criswell said.

President's Son Discusses Third Term Decision

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt will decide the third term question on the issue of whether he can best continue his principles in public or private life, according to his eldest son, James.

The younger Roosevelt's remarks at a dinner of B'Nai B'Rith women last night led to the general inference in political circles today that his father has yet come to no decision on the third term question.

"When the decision is made, it will be made solely and wholly on the principles which have actuated his service to the country—whether or not they can best be continued in private life or public office," James told the women.

The growing weight of responsibility in public office raises the question of retirement and yet there is also a question of duty to the country, he added.

Bartle And Nick La Volpe To Box "Rubber" Match

PETE SPOTTI TO FIGHT DELARADO

When Benny Bartle, the former high school gridder of Ellwood City, takes on Nick La Volpe, the Youngstown walloper in a three-round amateur boxing bout in Lincoln gym, Ellwood City, Saturday night, it will be the "rubber match" and consequently fandom can anticipate a lot of leather being tossed to and fro.

Bartle, practically an unknown in the Art of Self Defense, travelled to Farrell and gave the Buckeye battler a thorough over-hauling. After Bartle took a decision from Mickie Rubin here, Bartle gave Nick a second chance but muffed the bout, and Nick motored homeward with the knowledge that their meetings were even.

When Messrs. Joe Latiano and Merritt Book figured who they could get to please the fistic palates of fans they "hit upon" a "rubber match" for Benny and Nick. In fact it would not be surprising were it to prove a rubber match with either bouncing up and down from the canvas before the setto is finished.

Other Good Bouts

However, the Bartle-La Volpe 175-pound fight will not be the only battle to aid the Ellwood City Hospital Orthopedic fund, which is being sponsored by the B. P. O. E. of that city. Indeed not. The card is crowded with pugilistic diadems and one of the crown holders is Pete Spotti, Diamond Belt welterweight champion.

He's going to give Ted Delarado, the East Liverpool socker a chance. Ted scored one of the neatest knockouts yet scored in the Arena here. If Spotti knows how to mix with southpaws, Mr. Ted is going to be in for a rough Evenin's Evenin'.

The Rtardo boys, Nick, a lightweight and Babe, a bantamweight, will appear on the fistic card. Nick will battle Bud Watson of East Liverpool and Babe will swap punches with Al Dundee, a right smart kid of Cecil. The Retardoes are no person's saps, hence good fistic loom.

Frankie Moran, feather weight of this city will fight. Just whom is not known. Benny Malone of Pittsburgh didn't appear here for which he ought to be set down by the commission. As a result Moran went through an exhibition and was salvaged with booing until it was explained why he was holding his punches.

Slam-Bang Reele On

Billy Reale, Castlewood, who has hands with whipcord muscles and legs, as strong as Gibralter, because of his traveling in the wake of a plow will fight Noran Fitch of East Liverpool at 155. Fitch has shown to good advantage here.

Al Sayers of East Liverpool, who a year ago claimed the West Virginia title at 147, will fight ex-champion of the diamond belt tourney, Sammy Secrete. If Sayers will meet Sammy half way there'll be a fight all of the way.

Buck Chambers, a West Pittsburg lad who went to New Castle high, although not nearly as experienced as Steve Morgan of Youngstown, hopes to make a good showing. If he can get over Steve he will have plenty of future bouts ahead of him at 160 pounds.

Ray Lacasino, Ellwood City, will meet Al Vancovitch, Monaca, and Roy Crews, also of Ellwood City, will exchange swings with Sammy Portland of Ambridge, in the opening two bouts.

The fighters will end training today. The fights Saturday will start at 9 p. m. The referee will be Tom McMahon, this city, and judges, Dr. Keppen, Beaver Falls, and Emmett Rocco, formerly prominent as a heavyweight and one of the best this district ever has produced. Tommy Newman and Joe Smith will handle the clock pieces.

Brotherhood Day Is Observed Here With Fine Program

Prof. Harold Caplan, Of High School Faculty, Is Principal Speaker

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—A fairly representative assemblage of some two hundred Protestants, Catholics and Jews gathered at the Lincoln high school gymnasium last evening for the first local observance of National Brotherhood week, celebrated nationally on Washington's birthday. The meeting was most worthwhile and marked with enthusiasm.

Prof. Harold Caplan, of the high school faculty, was the guest speaker and he gave a splendid address in which he showed how Protestants, Catholics and Jews worked together in building the United States after the Revolutionary war, and how they all joined in signing the Declaration of Independence.

A clever play concerning the various faiths and how their complete cooperation is necessary in maintaining world unity was ably portrayed by Attorneys Michael A. Barletta, J. W. Humphrey and Allen Keller.

The stage was appropriately decorated with American flags arranged about a large portrait of Washington.

To plan some form of organization through which this fellowship might continue, a meeting will be held next Thursday evening at 7:45 p. m., in the Sunday school rooms of the First Presbyterian church.

The complete program of worship follows:

Dr. A. M. Stevenson, presiding: "America The Beautiful"—assembly.

Invocation—Rev. Francis Paul.

Violin Solo—John Kuczmarski; "Meditation"—Massinet; "Romance"—Wieniawsky; Robert Stevenson, accompanist.

Address, "America, Built on Brotherhood"—Prof. Harold Caplan.

Pledge to Brotherhood—All unite in reading good will resolutions.

Many Applications For Review Board

Forty-One Scouts Are Accepted At February Meeting At City Hall

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 23.—The streamline board of review for Boy Scouts and scouters of the Ellwood City district met in the municipal building last evening. There were 33 applicants for advancement and merit badge awards and two Boy Scouts, Louis Lefever and Harry Shirey, turned in applications for junior scoutmaster warrants.

The second class scout advancements were Earl Houk, Richard Lebate and Thomas Cartwright of troop No. 5; Kenneth Powell and William Ellefson of troop No. 6 and Art Pastin and Dale Warnock of troop No. 9. Melvin Watson of troop No. 4 and Elmer Bargley of troop No. 13 were reviewed and passed for first class scout advancements.

The merit badge counselors evidently had a busy month because 41 applications were reviewed and accepted. Those who applied for merit badges and their troop numbers are as follow: troop No 1, Ed Slevin, Joe Connell and Bob Hudson; troop No. 4, Melvin Watson and James Simpson; troop No. 5, Paul Hough and Ben Carbeau; troop No. 7, Paul McElwain, Victor Reilly and Paul Gamble; troop No. 8, Arthur Millson; troop No. 11, Clifford Bower, Paul Thornhill, George Paul, Jack Hammersmith and Bob Snyder; troop No. 12, Anthony O'Tusso, Paul Tirela, Ralph Luciana, John Kast, Jacob Feldman, Joseph O'Tusso, Joe Metz and Herman Feldman.

James Simpson of troop No. 4 and Victor Reilly of troop No. 7 having an accumulation of five merit badges were permitted to apply for the Star award for advancement and Paul Gamble of troop No. 7, who has been an Eagle Scout for more than six months and earned five additional merit badges over the required 21 necessary for Eagle award, made application for the bronze palm award.

The advancement committee is preparing a suitable trophy which will be given at the court of honor next Thursday evening. Every merit badge or advancement award counts for one point but will be counted only when the Boy Scout or scouter is present or receives the award at the first court of honor following the review board meeting at which he made application.

All awards for this board of review will be made when the February court is called to order Thursday, Feb. 29, at 7:30 p. m. by the chairman, Rev. A. M. Stevenson.

Mrs. Gene Niro will be hostess next Thursday at her home in Lawrence avenue.

GREEN HIGHWAYS

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Calif.—California highway engineers have found that members of the genus Mesembryanthemum something to the eyes—and with such a name they could be expected to do anything. But the Mesambryanthemums, ice plants which are commonly planted along highways, hav recently been set in center strips of divided roads. Engineers have found that their green foilage sets off to better advantage the curbing of the center strips and acts as a sort of tonic to the eyes of tired drivers.

G. E. Mergenthaler

Looking at you through the bars of his teller's cage is G. E. Mergenthaler, acting manager of a suburban Baltimore bank. When a bandit shoved the business end of a pistol between the bars and demanded cash, Mergenthaler handed over $1,500, but managed to withhold $10,000 also on hand.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Yesterday was George Washington's Birthday . . . and to public officials and government business houses and the like it was a day to be closed. Also it was a day to fly that great Flag of the United States of America . . . but we noticed that nary a flag appeared on the property of the New Castle library . . . we like to see Old Glory wave in the breeze and when it's not there we miss it.

According to reports from the south land . . . the talk this year has been about the weather we have been having up north here. It seems that all other topics have been sidestepped . . . of course it works similar to the talk one hears in Sunny California by the Chamber of Commerce . . . out west they say it never rains to spoil one's vacation . . . they just have heavy dew . . . down south when the frost came we wonder what they said . . . and again many people are saying give us Pennsylvania where men are men and women like them thata way.

And if you walk on the road at night, take heed to this little bit of news from the files of the AAA office.

"Few pedestrians who do not drive, realize how hard it is for motorists to see them at night. AAA studies show that those headlights which look so bright to the walker, fail to reveal him to the driver until the car is often dangerously near. So walk on the left side, facing oncoming cars and wear or carry something white."

A spaniel dog . . . about one year old . . . black in color, strayed away from its home early last evening . . . (it was one of the dogs listed in this column last night and the new owner had just taken it home) . . . in case you know the whereabouts of this dog please call 5510 immediately and the new owner will come for it.

On January 30th the President's Ball was held . . . we are wondering if we missed the financial report for this affair or maybe those in charge neglected to hand it to our editor. We would like to compare the earnings of New Castle with those of other towns of our size.

Trading Quiet In Day's Market

Minor Losses Occur After Irregular Opening Of New York Market

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The stock marget declined today after an irregular opening. Trading quieted down after a fairly active start.

Some of the specialties suffered sharp breaks, but for the most part losses were minor. Aviations were the sole group to move against this trend.

Eastman Kodak was a feature in the dull market with a loss of over five points. This was exceptional, though Loft was more than a point lower and Sears lost almost as much. Chemicals were mixed. Allied dropped 1; DuPont gained 1, Union Carbide was off ¾.

In aviations Douglas was up ¾ and others in the group gained less. Both Chrysler and General Motors declined fractions. Bethlehem held steady and other steels lost small fractions.

Coppers were unchanged to almost a point lower. Oils and rubbers followed the same pattern. Rails and utilities were irregular.

Commodities were strong. Wheat in Chicago advanced 1½ cents to the best level since Jan. 3, and a 3-cents a pound rise in March cotton put that contract at the best price since Jan. 18.

Foreign markets were irregular. Foreign exchanges were easier.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION REPORT

At the end of the fifth month of the testing year of the Lawrence County Dairy Herd Improvement Association, the testers Wayne Walker and Frank Wright report 34 herds were tested with a total of 849 cows in the association. For the month of January, 1940, 96 cows produced 40 pounds of butterfat or more and 33 in this group had records for the month of over 50 pounds fat. There were 28 cows in the association that produced in excess of 1,200 pounds milk for the period.

A four-year-old Jersey owned by Lauren Thompson, New Wilmington, Pa., led the association in individual records for the month by producing 1,246 pounds milk and 77.3 pounds butterfat during the testing period. Next in the list of ten high cows in butterfat production was a four-year-old Jersey owned by F. W. Byers, North Beaver Township, having produced 1,231 pounds of milk and 65.2 pounds fat. The next two cows in the list were a three and a four-year-old pair of Jerseys, owned by Lauren Thompson, whose records for the month were 64.6 pounds fat and 64.3 pounds fat. A Jersey owned by N. E. Sampson, Volant, Pa., came fifth with a 63.4 pounds record of butterfat production for the 31-day testing period.

The Holstein herd of H. B. Hoye, New Castle, Pa., No. 2, led the association in milk production for the month, producing an average of 944.8 pounds of milk and 29.53 pounds of fat per cow. The mixed herd owned by K. R. Brenner, Rochester, Pa., was second averaging 775.3 pounds milk, and 28.44 pounds fat. D. H. Brenner, Rochester, Pa., was the owner of the third high milk production herd, with a record of 768.5 pounds milk per cow.

The Jersey herd owned by Lauren Thompson led the association in butterfat production with an average of 40.05 pounds fat per cow. Second high in butterfat production was the Jersey herd of J. W. Martin, Bessemer, Pa., with an average of 34.62 pounds fat. The herd of Jerseys owned by J. W. Bronson, New Galilee, Pa., was third with an average production of 34.55 pounds butterfat per cow.

The average cow in the association during the month of January produced 536.9 pounds milk and 24.18 pounds fat with an average test of 4.50 per cent.

CROSS POLLINATION OF APPLES IMPROVES CROP

When a large block of an apple orchard is limited to a single variety, lack of cross-pollination may result in low yields. This condition can be remedied by using bouquets from good pollinating varieties. To insure an adequate supply of bouquets, leave a number of suitable trees unpruned.

Yields in a number of Lawrence County orchards have suffered because the owners failed to arrange for cross-pollination. Such varieties as Stayman and McIntosh usually set little fruit without the help of outside pollen. In favorable years, York and Rome may set a fair crop. However, all varieties will produce more fruit if cross-pollinated. Yields of York, which is only partially self-sterile, have been trebled by the use of Jonathan bouquets.

Practically every variety which produces good pollen is suitable for pollinating varieties blossoming at approximately the same time. Grimes, Delicious, McIntosh, Jonathan, York, Rome, Ben Davis, Gano, Golden Delicious, Wealthy, Cortland, Duchess and Yellow Transparent ordinarily are good pollinators. Varieties unsuitable for pollination include Winesap, Paragon or Black Twig, Stayman, Baldwin, Rhode Island Greening, Tompkins, King and Summer Rambo.

Six to eight branches two or three feet long and well laden with blossoms make an excellent bouquet. Place the base of the bouquet in a buck of water well up in the tree. Two bouquets in every second tree in every other row have been found satisfactory for producing a heavy set of fruit in formerly unproductive orchards.

To insure maximum distribution of the small amount of pollen provided by the bouquets, use one strong colony of bees for each acre of orchard.

Grafting with desirable pollinating varieties is the permanent answer to the problem of cross-pollination. However, it will be several years after grafting before the scions will begin blossoming. During that period, heavier production can be obtained by the use of bouquets.

SHEEP REFLECT WINTER CARE IN FUTURE PROFITS

Improper management has caused the discontinuance of sheep raising on many farms. The care given sheep during the winter is reflected in future returns from the flock.

It is important to feed breeding ewes a legume roughage, such as alfalfa, clover, or soybean hay. At this season, corn silage and such roots as turnips, rutabagas, and mangels will furnish splendid succulent feed. Avoid spoiled or frozen silage. Two to three pounds of silage are considered sufficient until after the lambs are dropped. It is best to supplement any roughage with a good grain mixture, such as oats and bran, for three to six weeks before lambing. If the ewes are lacking in flesh, a little corn or barley can be added profitably to the ration.

It is essential that ewes exercise. Some farmers make their flocks work by feeding roughage some distance from the barn.

Water must always be available since the average ewe requires at least a gallon of water per day. Salt is another essential which the ewe flock must have.

Like other kinds of livestock, sheep respond in direct proportion to the care given them. The farmer is the most important factor in the sheep business. He must give close attention to details. For example, the man who is able to make a profit from sheep notices the ewe that fails to appear at the feed rack or does not have milk for her newly born lamb.

FOR BEST POTATO CROP USE DISEASE-FREE SEED

If you haven't already ordered your potato seed, remember that the supply of high quality stock is relatively scarce. To produce the best crop possible under your conditions, it is absolutely essential to use disease-free seed.

In selecting potato seed, you should first consider whether it is disease-free and then whether it has been properly stored and handled. Disease is the most troublesome problem which growers must consider in the selection of their seed. Many of them fail to realize that a disease may be present even though it isn't noticeable in the tubers.

There are two approved methods for securing satisfactory seed. The simplest but most expensive method is the purchase of sufficient certified seed to meet your requirements. The other is to purchase certified stock from which to grow seed for planting next year. Seed not more than one-year removed from certification is satisfactory for planting if properly grown. It is important that all diseased plants be removed. Secure your certified seed from the northern producing areas.

GOOD FITTING MENS WORK CLOTHES MEAN COMFORT

Mother and her daughters choose their cotton house dresses with an eye to beauty as well as washability. Also father and the boys can spruce up for their work in washable attractive utility clothes—overalls, service coats, coveralls, and other styles of work clothes.

To most men, overalls mean denim, says Miss Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. Overalls also are made of twill, covert, hickory stripe, drill, and jeans. Chambray is used for work shirts and children's play suits.

Men's utility garments have been greatly improved in recent years both as to appearance and fit, Miss Markle points out. The best work garments on the market today are available in tailored sizes, which means that the garments are cut in the proper proportions to care for the variations in all body measurements and not simply waist and leg measurements. In this way, better fit and comfort is assured every type of man—tall, short, slim, stout, or average.

Overalls should not shrink nor fade, and they should last a long time as well as make the man fairly presentable in appearance. When you buy overalls, look for a label telling you that the material is firm and strong, that it is vat dyed and has been sanforized. Look at the seams and see that they are lapped with no raw edges and are triple stitched where they receive heavy strain. There should not be less than ten stitches to the inch. "Bar tacking," stitching cross-wise of the seams, is used to strengthen points likely to be torn or pulled.

She adds that rust proof buttons and buckles are "musts" for work clothes and the buttons should be riveted on the material.

VERTEBRAE INJURED BY SLAP ON BACK

(International News Service)

COALDALE, Pa., Feb. 23—Weldon Watkins, 21, was in Coaldale State hospital with three broken vertebrae today because a friend slapped him on the back to "cut in" at a dance a week ago.

Watkins thought little of the hearty slap until he began having serious pains several days later. X-ray examinations disclosed the fractures and hospital surgeons said he may have to remain in a cast two months.

Three Surrender To Detroit Police On Lottery Charges

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—Surrender of the three principal figures in Detroit's latest official upheaval, sought by police for 36 hours on charges of conspiracy in connection with operation of a lottery, today climaxed a six-month-old grand jury probe of gambling and alleged police corruption.

An hour before circuit court opened, former Police Superintendent Fred W. Frahm, ousted in the recent police department violent shakeup, entered the court room of Judge Homer Ferguson, conducting the probe, and surrendered.

Hardly had court officials and newsmen recovered from their surprise when Wayne County Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea and his chief investigator, Harry Colburn, arrived and announced themselves ready to fight the conspiracy charges.

The three were immediately arraigned and stood mute. Pleas of not guilty were entered and the men freed on $1,000 bond each. Examination was set for March 2.

McCrea was cheered by news from Lansing that Gov. Luren D. Dickinson would not remove him from office until convicted.

Woman Is Indicted On Murder Charge

Woman Who Killed Her Mother And Leaped From Hotel Window, Faces Charge

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—Agnes West, 34-year-old former West Virginia university student, who leaped from a sixth floor hotel room in which her mother was strangled to death last January 2, has been indicted for her parent's slaying, District Attorney Andrew Park announced today.

The mother, Mrs. Agnes West, 56, was strangled with her own scarf. The daughter, a former mental patient in Huntington, W. Va., remained in the room with her for several hours and then leaped from the sixth floor window. She suffered a fractured vertebrae in the fall and has been hospitalized since.

Miss West will be given a test at the behavior clinic as soon as her condition permits, Park said.

Maintains Hunger Strike For Love

(International News Service)

CLAYTON, Mo., Feb. 23.—Melvin F. Miller, 30-year-old scissors grinder, part-time preacher and fasting Romeo, today continued his hunger strike for love in a cell at the St. Louis county jail.

Miller, who chained himself to a tree near the Florissant, Mo., home of Miss Edith Perkins, 31, petite, blond stenographer, and went on a hunger strike in order to attract her attention, was freed by deputies and brought to jail Wednesday night. Miller declares that Miss Perkins, whom he met 12 years ago and whom he says has spurned his attentions, has written him that she wouldn't marry him if he were "the last man on earth."

"I'll not eat until she brings me the food in her own hands," Miller told jailers as he declined jail meals. Miller meanwhile was beginning to show signs of weakness and may be taken to a hospital.

He occupied himself last night by writing a 13-page letter to Miss Perkins in which he stated that he would "keep on fasting" until he and the object of his affections "come to an understanding".

"I'll be glad to eat anything you cook," Miller said in his letter.

No Short Weight Being Given Here

No short weight in foodstuffs, coal or gasoline is being given in New Castle or other points in Lawrence county, according to C. R. Balph, who inspects weights and measures for both the city and county of Lawrence.

Balph said he has not had occasion to bring prosecutions since he assumed office. "In fact," the inspector added, "I have received no complaints and it is seldom that I have found any scale which required adjustment."

There is one condition, Balph advised, that must be corrected immeditately, else prosecution will follow. He said 225 coal dealers have paid for their 1940 licenses, but about 100 have not taken out this year's license, which is a law violation.

Balph tours the city and county to perform his duties. There is no advance warning of his inspection.

Relief Districts In Some Instances Showing Decreases

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23—Three of four relief districts served by the state treasury today showed decreases in relief payments as compared to 1939.

Only the Scranton district reported an increase in relief needs.

State Treasurer F. Clair Ross blamed "unsatisfactory employment" conditions in the anthracite region for the Scranton situation.

Ross reported that for the week ending Wednesday, February 21, relief payments amounting to $1,-366,291 were made, an increase of $6,000 over the previous week.

Payments for the week, however, were more than $500,000 less than for a comparable week in 1939.

In Scranton, the current week's payments totalled $244,735 as compared to $244,529 for the previous week and $184,364 during the same period of 1939.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23—Barbara Bieling, seven and her brother, Donald six, were killed and a friend Nancy Dean, nine, was injured today when they were struck by an automobile while skipping to school with clasped hands.

The car, which contained five women, struck the children at an intersection one block from the Conwell public school. The women and the mother of Barbara and Donald became hysterical and were treated for shock by physicians.

The automobile which, police said was operated by Greta Zollhofer, had to be lifted from the bodies of the three youngsters. The father of the dead brother and sister is a plumber. He could not be located immediately.

Traffic patrolman Thomas Chriswell reported the children were skipping across the street under his protection when the tragedy occurred. "I had my arms outstretched to stop traffic, but apparently the woman driver didn't see me" Criswell said.

President's Son Discusses Third Term Decision

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt will decide the third term question on the issue of whether he can best continue his principles in public or private life, according to his eldest son, James.

The younger Roosevelt's remarks at a dinner of B'Nai B'Rith women last night led to the general inference in political circles today that his father has yet come to no decision on the third term question.

"When the decision is made, it will be made solely and wholly on the principles which have actuated his service to the country—whether or not they can best be continued in private life or public office," James told the women.

The growing weight of responsibility in public office raises the question of retirement and yet there is also a question of duty to the country, he added.
